INDIANS IN CROKER CASE

Cherokees, Congressmen, and Official Who Is a Red Man, Will Testify

By International News Service

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 5.—The deposition of Houston B. Tehee, the register of the treasury, whose signature appears on United States notes, will be presented to the Circuit Court of this county when the suit of Howard Croker against Richard Croker and his wife, Bula Croker, coms to a hearing.

Tehee is a Cherokee Indian, as is Mrs. Croker. Other members of the Cherokee nation, whose testimony is also sought, as to Mrs. Croker's early life, are United States Senator Robert L. Owen and Congressman Hastings.

M. D. Carmichael, an attorney of this city, who filed the petition for the Croker children, is said to be in New York in conference with McCombs and Ryan, the New York lawyers for the Croker children. It is expected there will be much oral testimony, as well as many depositions, when the motion to dismiss the case is argued.

Judge Donnell is still ill and it is uncertain when he will be well enough to hear arguments and receive testimony.

Dr. Ralph N. Greene, of Jacksonville, former superintendent of the Florida Hospital for the Insane, now State health officer, has announced the result of the two days' observation of Richard Croker, made at Croker's request, following the filing of the suit alleging that Croker is incompetent to conduct his affairs.

"I found a wealth of mental maturity and soundness of judgment coupled with an excellent state of physical preservation," Dr. Greene said, adding: "I found no evidence of the senility alleged in the suit."

Terror of South End Gangsters

PATROLMAN HENRY C. ELLIOTT.

OFFICER LAUGHS AT GANG THREAT

Elliott Declares If South End Band 'Get Him' They Will Have to Shoot

"If the Castle street gang or the Arlington square gang are out to get me, they've got to come shooting,' said Henry C. Elliott, Station 5 patrolman, today to the American.

Elliott, who is preserving law and order around Arlington square, formerly Castle square, against the attempts of "moonshine gunners" to do about as they went, made the statement in no boasting spirit.

"Don't give the people of Boston the impression I am looking for trouble, because I am not," he said. "I'm just going to keep on doing my duty."

Elliott recently was compelled to shoot "Beano" Breen, who was resisting arrest. More recently he was again compelled to shoot Frank Conroy and "Reno" Sullivan. And if the way he modestly spoke today is any criterion of his future actions, anybody else who resists arrest is likely to feel lead if Elliott thinks it necessary.

Elliott has a background that lawbreakers should scan before getting rough with him. In the first place, he comes from Kentucky and in his early life was used to feuds and their fatal consequences.

Then he was in the 103d Regiment of the 26th Division overseas, and he isn't easily scared, wherever, his nerves are in excellent condition. He

Borah Says Enforcing Treaty Means War

By International News Service.

Washington, April 5.—Literal enforcement of the treaty of Versailles is impossible without further bloodshed. This was the declaration made today by Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, commenting on the Ruhr valley situation between France and Germany.

"The terms of the German treaty are such that France is making an issue to force the immediate literal observance of its provisions," Senator Borah commented. "The treaty of Versailles cannot be enforced to the letter without further bloodshed. If the impending crisis develops, senatorial action may be expected. I do not contemplate doing anything at the present time."

SALEM MAN ON TRIAL AS SLAYER

William Biros Faces Jury on Charge of Murdering Blanche Lavoie

The trial of William Biros, charged with murder in the first degree in connection with the shooting of Blanche Lavoie on Hawthorne place, Salem, December 12, began in Superior Court at Salem today.

Judge Christopher T. Callahan, of Holyoke, presided, with District Attorney S. H. Donnell appearing for the prosecution and Attorney William H. McSweeney of Salem for the defense. Ninety-seven talesmen were on hand from which to select a jury.

The government contends that Biros who has a wife and one child, was jealous of Miss Lavoie. On the night of December 12 it is alleged that both attended a dance at New and Then Hall, when Biros is said to have exhibited a revolver.

After the dance the young woman was on her way home through Hawthorne place with two male companions, when Biros is alleged to have shot her. She died a few minutes later.

Begs Governor to Save Son From Chair

A sorrowing mother, across the sea, today appealed to Governor Coolidge to save her boy from the death chair.

The letter was received on the eve of the day that the young man is to expiate his crime.

The appeal is from Mrs. Filomena Estrali, mother of Antonio Teregno, twenty-four, convicted of the murder of Rafaella Cammerota, at Westfield and is doomed to die shortly after midnight. The mother said to the Governor:

"A disgraced mother appeals to you to save her son.

"My poor son left our home before he was seventeen years old, being forced to go far from us to help us in our poverty.

"He has always been good and he never has done any wrong and always been kind to us and sent us money.

"Unfortunately, he met with a bad woman, who has dragged him into evil, taking advantage of his simplicity.

"May God reward you for your mercy."

The wife of Cammerota, convicted of complicity in the crime, is serving a sentence of fifteen years.

An appeal for the Governor to exercise executive clemency has been made to the Governor and the Council on two occasions, but they declined to intervene. The basis of those appeals was that young Teregno yielded to the wiles of the woman, who is about forty.

UNION AND "L" TRUSTEES DISCUSS WAGE DEMAND

A conference between trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway and representatives of the Boston Carmen's Union was held today to discuss the latest wage demands. Following the meeting, Thomas F. Another meeting will be held tomorrow at the Elevated offices in the Transit Building on Massachusetts avenue.

GERMANY EXPECTED TO YIELD

French Forces May Be Ordered by Foch to Occupy Five Towns

By International News Service.

Paris, April 5.—The foreign office adheres to the belief that the Ruhr question will not result in a renewal of hostilities between Germany and the allies.

A statement to this effect was authorized today. The opinion was put forth at the foreign office that Germany is about to back down.

French forces in Germany may be ordered by Marshal Foch to occupy five more German towns instead of four, as originally reported, according to the newspaper Liberte today. It stated that the towns which will be occupied are Homburg, Frankfort, Hanau, Darmstadt and Dieburg.

The troops are expected to take over the cities by Wednesday.

(Dieburg was not included in the original list of German cities which the French decided to occupy. It is in Hesse, nine miles northeast of Darmstadt.)

Berlin is still in possession of the Ruhr workmens, according to reports reaching the government.

"Things are moving slowly but systematically," one high official of the government stated. "So far we have received no word of clashes between civilians and the government troops that were sent to the Ruhr district. On the contrary the troops were received joyfully."

TAKE GIRL'S BODY FROM LAKE AT CHICAGO

Wealthy Social Worker Found Dead Off 'Gold Coast'; Missing for Months

By International News Service.

Chicago, April 5.—The nation-wide search for Jeanne De Kay, missing heiress and social service worker, whose sudden disappearance here several months ago caused a sensation throughout the United States, ended today when her body was found in Lake Michigan just off Chicago's "Gold Coast" district.

The body was positively identified as that of Miss De Kay by Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton of Hull House.

Providence Judge Searched for Girl

The nation-wide search for Jeanne DeKay was prosecuted from Providence by Judge Thomas Z. Lee, counsel for the girl's father, who is a fugitive from justice in Switzerland.

Judge Lee received full authority to conduct the search in a cablegram from DeKay, Sr., and spent thousands of dollars in an effort to locate the young woman. John W. DeKay, Jr., brother of the missing girl, handled the Chicago end of the search, Miss DeKay having dropped out of sight from the Hull House in that city De-cember 23.

The girl, who was graduated from the fashionable Heathfield Ascot School, London, decided to take up social work as a career, and was accepted by Janes Addams as her protege. She had been at Hull House but a short time when she disappeared.

Her brother, who was then in New York, was notified and hurried to Chicago, where the police were working on the theory that the young woman had been kidnaped or was a suicide.

The first theory was scouted by Miss Adams, who believed that Miss DeKay had either wandered away while suffering from amnesia or had killed herself while temporarily unbalanced.

From that time the search was continued throughout the country, hundreds of clews being run down. A young woman was arrested at Atlanta, Ga., created considerable excitement by posing as Jeanie DeKay.

ASKS BASEBALL ON SUNDAY

Mayor Sends Order to Council, Urging and Expecting Immediate Action

Mayor Peters sent to the City Council today, with a request for its immediate passage, an order permitting Sunday baseball in Boston.

The order, one of the briest executive documents that the council has received, reads:

"Ordered: That Chapter 240 of the Acts of 1920, entitled 'An act to permit, under public regulation and control, certain sports and games on the Lord's Day,' be, and the same hereby is accepted."

Favorable action by the Council on the order was anticipated by the Mayor.

Mayor Peters again urged the Council in an official message today to take the necessary action to authorize the sale of city-owned property at Arch and Hawley streets and the purchase of land at Milk and Sears streets as a site for Police Station 3.

Consolidation of the penal institutions, the Boston Infirmary, the children's institutions and the institutions registration departments, under a commissioner, whose salary will be $7,500, is provided in an ordinance forwarded by the Mayor to the Council today. It is the third attempt by the Mayor to consolidate these departments under one head, the Council defeating two previous attempts.

Thomas C. O'Brien, penal institutions commissioner, is slated as the new commissioner if the Council adopts the ordinance, it is stated. He receives at present $5,000. The ordinance also provides for two deputy commissioners, appointed and compensation fixed by the Mayor.

ESCAPED INMATE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Houlton, Me., April 5.—Newman Clark, escaped inmate of the Grand Falls Hospital, attempted suicide by drinking poison when discovered here half frozen and clad only in a bed quilt. Prompt use of the stomach pump saved his life. Clark escaped from the Canadian hospital Friday night. His next appearance was at the home of George Morrill. He slept in an outhouse, and for some hours terrorized the Morrill family into keeping his presence a secret. Today the man was turned over to New Brunswick officials.

GIRL OF 11 AND BOY OF 12 ARE HOUSEKEEPERS

Antonio Pepe, of Sumner street, East Boston, told Judge Barnes today that his eleven-year-old daughter, Rosina, didn't go to school because she had to look after the house. He was found guilty.

Because the parents are both working is no reason for keeping a child away from school, said Judge Barnes in finding Pasquale Prondute of Cottage street $5. Prondute failed to send his twelve-year-old son to school. He said the boy looked after the house.

RENT ORDER IS BEFORE SENATE

Tonight Haverhill Tenants Will Join in Warfare on Profiteering Landlords

Interest in the rent campaign centres today on the state Senate, where the order introduced by Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, inviting the heads of the executive, judicial and legislative departments of the Commonwealth to confer on this problem, comes up for action. Tonight in the City Hall at Haverhill a mass meeting will be held for the formation of a branch of the Boston American Tenants' League.

Representative Hays' order has already been unanimously passed by the House of Representatives, and it is felt that it will also be passed by the Senate.

The only danger lies in the fact that it may be killed by what is popularly known as "the whispering" process, the order being introduced and killed without ever having been voted upon. Inasmuch as several districts have instructed their Senators to work for the passage of the order, however, it is believed that

Most of the barracks in Tyrone and Donegal were unused buildings. A group of seven barracks buildings were destroyed near Nenagh, County Tipperary, and another group near Keork.

Six barracks buildings, a military dispensary and the courthouse were set on fire at Leitrim. A building at Drumes also was fired.

CORDONS OF POLICE.

Incendiaries attacked the Donegal barracks and destroyed them. Cordons of police were thrown along the main roads of County Donegal and County Tyrone to search all vehicles for incendiaries.

At Strabane, in County Tyrone (Ulster province) the Sinn Fein flag was hoisted over the town hall and elsewhere throughout the town. Crowds thronged the streets and many persons saluted the flag.

When it became apparent that the Sinn Feiners would not attempt an armed uprising on a big scale, the British military cordons around many of the cities in the south were withdrawn.

Dublin was quiet this morning with British troops and the royal Irish constabulary maintaining a vigilant guard everywhere. A band of armed men all disguised held up a mail motor lorry at Kilrush, in County Clare, and rifled the official pouches containing military dispatches.

ALL WIRES CUT.

For a while Belfast was isolated from the rest of the world by the cutting of telephone and telegraph wires by a band of Sinn Feiners. The Belfast custom house was raided and many documents were seized.

Excitement runs high in Galway and Mayo. "Cattle driving" continued over the week end with nearly 2,000 men participating.

("Cattle raiding" consists of raiding an estate and driving off the cattle.)

One thousand Sinn Feiners attended a football game at Killygordon, waving flags and banners and, cheering for Easter week. They were accompanied by brass bands.

Easter week is the anniversary of the Sinn Fein rising at Dublin, 1916.)

WARSHIPS IN DUBLIN BAY.

British destroyers are anchored in the Dublin Bay. The military cordon remains drawn around the city. Several battalions of soldiers appeared in the streets with armored cars and tanks. People heading for the north side of the city were turned back by armed outposts.

A man found shot outside the city is believed to have been a government spy. The military searched several houses.

The incendiary wave is wide-spread in the south of Ireland.

The customs offices at Limerick are reduced to a pile of ashes.

A Limerick County official was enticed from his farm, taken out into a field, and shot.

In Dublin a number of blazes were started in the government income tax offices. The caretakers of one government building were held up by armed men before the torch was applied to the place. Many valuable documents were destroyed.

In Cork the pension office and the internal revenue office were burned down.

There was feverish police and military activity at Cork. Large forces constantly patrolled all streets. All automobiles were held up and the occupants closely questioned.

Eleven unoccupied police barracks were burnt or blown up in County Cork.

Raiders invaded the postoffice at Grenagh and seized much mail.

Wants American Methods Used to Suppress Sinn Fein

London, April 5.—"It is time to have done with weakness and forbearance and resort to stern measures like those that the American government so well understands how to adopt against lawlessness and sedition," said the Post today in commenting upon the new disorders in Ireland.

The Graphic expresses belief that the Sinn Fein has now adopted a "guerilla policy," with sporadic uprisings at a later date.

"It is likely, however, that none of these risings will be big enough to enable the military forces to deal a smashing blow on a big scale," the newspaper added.

"The situation constitutes a serious nuisance to the government by the majority," said the Chronicle.

The Telegraph said: "If we wish to renew normal life, let the Irish people rediscover their moral courage, which grows lax and irresistably rid themselves of the apathetic tolerance of murder which would disgrace savage tribes."

De Valera to Return to Ireland, London Hears

London, April 5.—Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish republic, is reported by the Weekly Dispatch to be about to come back to Ireland from the United States.

The paper claims to have information to the effect that if the report is true, Sir Hamar Greenwood, the new Chief Secretary for Ireland, will not interfere with De Valera, when the latter lands in Ireland, as long as he contents himself with "constitutional agitation."

Two Women Pickets Patrol British Embassy

Washington, April 5.—Bearing mourning bands on their arms and on their placards, two pickets—Mrs. Harry Walker of Astoria, L. I., and Miss Helen Lyon Merriam of St. Louis—started picketing the British embassy shortly before noon today.

The former's placard read: "America cannot continue relations with an England ruled by assassins." Miss Merriam's placard read: "America cannot continue relations with an England ruled by cowards."

The latter carried a placard reading, "Down with English militarism."

"We wish to salute you before we begin," said Mrs. Walker, to the two policemen stationed in front of the embassy. The policemen smiled, doffed their caps and strolled away.

Mrs. Thomas Corliss, who is in charge of the demonstration, announced today that she had received a telegram stating definitely that an uprising is on in Ireland and that the casualties have been great.

Others who planned to picket include Miss Edith Ramsey of Boston, Miss Jean McLane of New York, Miss Martha Adams of Concord, N. H., Miss Sophia Shields of Newark, N. J., Mrs. James Walsh and Miss Mary Kenna of New York and Miss Helen Crowe of Chicago. A delegation of Baltimore women are expected to join the pickets.

The State Department was evidently distressed at the resumption of the picketing, but there was still confusion as to the law and officials were not ready to take any steps to end the demonstration.

CLOSE VOTE IN MICHIGAN

Hoover Managers Claiming Third Place for Candidate in Today's Primary

By International News Service.

Detroit, Mich., April 5.—Voting in Michigan's 1920 presidential preference primaries began with a rush this morning, and officials here expected a record-breaking vote that will be the most complete and definite expression of preferences for President ever placed on record.

The severe storm throughout the southern and central sections of the State will probably reduce the rural vote, but it was believed that important municipal issues being submitted in many of the cities, together with the first exercise of the ballot in a presidential election by women voters, who more than offset this.

The Republican candidates for president have conducted intensive campaigns, especially Senator Johnson, General Wood, Governor Lowden and Senator Poindexter, and Republican leaders believe the race will be close.

Herbert C. Hoover's managers are claiming first place in the race for him, while no campaign has been made for General Pershing nor William G. Simpson, Michigan candidate.

William G. McAdoo and Attorney General Palmer are the only Democratic ticket, although Hoover will poll a few Democratic votes.

In Detroit a bitter battle is on between Mayor James Cousens and the Detroit United Railways Company over a proposed municipal street car system.

SNOW PREDICTED FOR TONIGHT

Boston citizens are advised to take the trusty fur coat out of moth balls, unpack the winter goloshes, and keep umbrellas handy. Rain today, snow for tonight; and weather below freezing for tomorrow—that's what is promised for Easter Week.

The entire middle West was shivering today in the grip of a "White Easter" blizzard. Huge snowdrifts seriously interfered with railroads, telephone and telegraph services, and caused suffering in hundred of families whose Winter supply of coal was exhausted. In several places the gale blew windows in, ripped off billboards and branches of trees.

Temperatures today ranged to freezing and below as far South as Louisiana. It was 4 below at Prince Albert, 3 below at Williston, N. D., 28 at Greenville, Me., 44 at Nantucket, and 40 in Boston at 8 a. m.

PLYMOUTH DEALERS ASK SUNDAY PERMITS

Plymouth, April 5.—The selectmen were besieged today with requests to permit the sale of ice cream, candy, tonics, confectionery and fruit on Sunday. Because of a warning issued by Chief of Police Armstrong, many of the twenty dealers yesterday refused to make sales of these articles, as they had been unable to secure permits. Others sold goods on condition that they were to be eaten on the premises. For years these articles have been dispensed on Sundays without trouble, but it was only when the long neglected Act of 1909 was accepted by the voters that the necessity for permits arose.

ROXBURY WOMAN DENIES SHE SOLD MAN LIQUOR

Mrs. Mary A. Tennyson, forty-five, of Warren street, Roxbury, pleaded not guilty in the Roxbury court today to the charge of making an illegal sale of liquor. Intoxicants valued at about $2,000 were seized by police in a raid of her home Saturday night. William Burke, a lodger, and John B. Cannon of Dorchester avenue, pleaded not guilty to being present where narcotic drugs were found. The cases were continued to April 13.

TO HEAR FROM COAL BUYERS

Public Meeting in Boston to Reveal Increase While Palmer Investigates

A public hearing on recent advances in coal prices will be held at the State House this week by the commission on the Necessaries of Life, in the meantime another investigation is being conducted by Boston agents of the Department of Justice.

Reports of increases of several dollars a ton charged by retail dealers reached the State Commission today. The heaviest advances are said to have been made in bituminous coal. The reports will be presented by the commission at the public hearing to which both wholesale and retail coal dealers will be summoned.

A number of manufacturers have notified the commission of their intention to attend the public hearing and present bills from the coal dealers showing the advance in rates.

The Federal investigation is being conducted upon instructions from Attorney-General Palmer, who declared that profiteering could be prosecuted under the Lever Act. The claim that the increase was justified in part by the proposed increase to miners was challenged by the attorney-general with the declaration that these increases would not affect the price of coal more than forty cents a ton.

Similar action took place in the fact that the recent raises were also caused by increases in pay of teamsters and water transportation rates are being investigated by the Department of Justice.

Operators Blame Retail Dealers for Big Advance

Washington, April 5.—Investigation into the recent rise of $1.50 to $3 a ton in the price of coal to consumers was continued on a nation-wide scale today by the Department of Justice.

The War and Navy departments, which need about 10,000,000 tons of coal this year, took steps today to protect the government against exorbitant and excessive prices at the mines.

Seizure of mines supplying navy coal or confiscation of coal at these mines on a cost plus basis of pay was considered by officers of the mines and supply divisions of both the Navy and War departments.

Operators' committees in Washington denied that the operators were responsible for the exact high prices for their coal than was justified during the Winter. They said that they were doing "all in their power to prevent prices going beyond reasonable bounds."

The blame for the present situation was placed on the retailers by the operators. They declared that retailers who buy coal from the producers on an annual contract calling for a fixed price per ton at the mine are selling the product at sums from $2 to $6 in excess of the amount of the mine price and the freight rate combined.

GANG THREATS FAIL TO SCARE ELLIOTT

is in every sense of the word a "two-fisted guy," yet not at all inclined to look for trouble.

Elliott, who rarely talks, explained today how the false report of his resignation came about. "I see easy enough," he said, "how the mistake was made. It was Earl Elliott of the same division who resigned. It's a funny thing about Earl Elliott, too. You see I lost a brother over across. He was reported killed at Chateau Thierry, where I got gassed myself.

He was in the 57th Division, enlisting from Ohio, while I joined the 103d Regiment of the 26th Division, M Company. Only a short time ago Captain Driscoll told me that another Elliott had been appointed to our station. I asked the name of the newcomer and I nearly had heart failure when the captain said 'Earl Elliott' for that was the name of my kid brother. One look at the new man, though, showed me right away, that it wasn't my brother."

Patrolman Elliott has nothing of the pugnacious look in his face. A silent type, and only his eyes show the man who is a bad one in a poker game or a fight.

"The South End is not with that gang in sentiment," he said. "There's just a few of them bang out together and help out each other in fights. Alone they are far from tough. They have never threatened me to my face, though I see the papers say that they are going to 'get' me. I don't think they'll ever get me, but if they do I'm betting that it will be more than a dozen of them, not one of them."

It was not until he was asked whether or not he felt nervous in passing the dark alleys which abound in the South End in the early morning hours that he showed feeling.

Nervous"? he said, and he smiled. "I was brought up in Kentucky when there was a gat to be a Pinkerton looking for an Elliott with a rifle from behind every bush. If a guy started to be nervous there was his chance. On the other side, too, if a guy wanted to be nervous he could see a Kentuckian every ten feet when he was out on patrol.

"But don't give the people of Boston the impression that I am looking for trouble, for I'm not. If it's forced on me I'll take it and hold up my end. The city of Boston doesn't want me to spend the rest of my days making paper dolls out in Danvers or some place on account of a beating, and if they get me they've got to come shooting."

You and Immigration

IN America today there are more feet than shoes, more necks than collars, more heads than hats, more mouths than food, more bodies than clothing, more stoves and furnaces than coal, more families than houses and more homes than furniture.

In Europe there are more farms than farming implements, more factory buildings than machinery, more railroads than rolling stock and more men than jobs. Europe needs American credit. America needs men.

With 110,000,000 population, America today is producing enough for only 60,000,000. High prices will continue until production is level with demand. And the chief cause of underproduction is lack of unskilled labor.

Half the workers in the basic industries are of foreign birth. Due to cessation of immigration during the war, the mills, mines and railroads are short 3,000,000 men. At least 1,000,000 foreign born workers now employed in them are preparing to return to Europe.

More than one-tenth of the white farm workers are of foreign birth. One out of every five immigrants lives in the country. Today a great food lack is threatened by shortage of farm help.

But the question of immigration is more than an industrial question—a question of you and your pocketbook. Every worthy immigrant who stays in America ought to be helped to realize his ambitions. He ought to be helped to a property stake. He ought to be helped to save so that his savings can be turned into a home and safe American investments.

America must have a national immigration policy. Now we have nothing but laws relating to admission and restriction. Any national policy should involve the questions of selection, distribution and assimilation.

Representatives of industry, agriculture, finance and labor, and the racial groups in America will meet on Wednesday, April 7, in New York City to formulate a national immigration policy, to be suggested to the country. It will be a getting together of all the elements of America's people to examine the facts and propose a plan.

Restricted accommodations necessarily limited the attendance to invitation. The conference however gives everyone the opportunity to tell the country and its legislators what he thinks.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., ON TOUR TO BOOST THE CHURCH

By International News Service.

Aboard the Rockefeller Train, New York, April 5.—In a special Pullman which might well be called the "Doubting Thomas" special, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., left here at an early hour today on a tour in behalf of the Interchurch world movement of North America.

As yesterday was the anniversary of the Resurrection so today, by ecclesiastical measure, is the anniversary of the appearance to doubting Thomas of the Risen Christ.

The day was signally marked in America with the departure from his palatial home of one of the world's richest men on a mission which has for its purpose the collection of about a third of a billion dollars within the coming year.

Both Mr. Rockefeller and his associates, who are leaders in the movement, insist that the collection of this fund is not the chief motive of this astonishing trip; the chief purpose is to gather this fund for the purpose of convincing the "doubting Thomases," on earth, of the power of the philosophy of Christianity.

Rockefeller's special car will be on the road for two weeks. In Washington, Rockefeller will attend a conference of leading business men. A large dinner is scheduled tonight with a mass meeting later at which he will speak. Robert Lanaing will preside over the Washington meetings.

Rockefeller's itinerary for the next week is: Tuesday at Pittsburgh, Wednesday at Cleveland, Thursday at Detroit, Friday at Chicago and Saturday at Minneapolis.

Among his associates are: Governor Carl Milliken of Maine, E. C. Cox of North Carolina, representing the Quakers; Daniel Baker of Baltimore, Methodist; Layman; J. T. Aitchison of New York, representing the Baptists; Dr. S. E. Taylor, general secretary of the movement; J. M. Speers, chairman of the finance committee, and Dr. A. E. Cory, assistant general secretary.

USES OF ASPIRIN TOLD BY "BAYER"

Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin 18 years ago, give advice.

When the Bayer Company introduced Aspirin over eighteen years ago, physicians soon proved it a marvelous help in relieving Rheumatism, Colds, Headache, Neuralgia, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago, Neuritis, Aching Joints, and Pain in general.

To get this same genuine, world-famous Aspirin, you must ask for "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," marked with the "Bayer Cross." You will find safe and proper directions in every unbroken package.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost only a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

REFUSE TO GO ON POLICE DUTY

Four Rockland Constables Will Wait Until They Are Formally Sworn In

Rockland, April 5.—The police department of this town is in confusion and the townspeople have been electrified by the refusal of four elected constables to serve as police officers.

Refusal is based on the fact that they have not yet been formally appointed or sworn in as police officers.

A constable is elected, but does not become a police officer until appointed and sworn in by the selectmen. The selectmen have postponed the swearing in until the appointment of a new police chief.

Thomas Leonard of Walpole was elected chief, but Walpole offered him more than $1,500 a year, which Rockland pays its chief. So Leonard remained at Walpole, and Archie Minnis is acting chief here.

"The constables did not strike," said a selectman today. "They simply refused to do police duty, which they say they have no right to do until appointed officers by the selectmen. Town Counsellor D. R. Coughlin says the constables can serve as officers if they so choose, and their salaries could be taken out of money appropriated for police work.

As matters stand, Acting Chief Minnis and Night Watchman McHugh constitute the entire police force of Rockland, whose population is 8,000. A story that the four constables refused to serve because Minnis was not made chief was denied. But the perplexing situation will be threshed out by the selectmen tonight.

BOILER BURSTS, WRECKS PLANT, INJURES ONE

Joseph Cuccio, of No. 32 Charter street, was burned about the head and his eyesight injured when a gas boiler exploded early today, wrecking the plant of the Macaroni Manufacturing Company, No. 37 Charter street, and starting a small fire.

His companion, Vincent Malafronte, of No. 244 Maverick street, East Boston, although dazed by the explosion, ran into the corridor, filled his lungs with fresh air and then dragged Cuccio to safety.

The police say that the gas had apparently been escaping, for when Cuccio lighted a match today there was an immediate explosion.

ELEVEN ARE INJURED IN RIOT AT COPENHAGEN

Copenhagen, April 5.—Eleven persons were injured in a riot in Opera square early today when the police charged a crowd of Communists. The trouble started when the Communists stoned the police. A majority of the Socialists were said to welcome the settlement of the general strike, but the radicals are opposing it. The strike was called off after both the workers and the government had made concessions.

Wanted STENOGRAPHER

Good opportunity for bright, ambitious American girl in advertising department. Must have stenographic experience. Salary $15.00 a week. Apply MR. WEBSTER, 4th floor, Boston Evening American, 18 Somerset street, Boston, from 9 to 10 A. M.

Not in years have the streets of Boston been in so deplorable a condition as at the present time. Unquestionably some blame can be laid to the extremely severe Winter, but indications are that something other than cold, ice and snow has had a bad effect.

Streets resurfaced and supposedly put in perfect condition since the opening of the present administration are today pockmarked with holes and an eyesore to the city. Asphalt as well as paving block surfaces are gone.

Devonshire street from Franklin street to Water street presents an especially sorry spectacle. Near the postoffice the condition reminds fighting men of something they saw in France. This street, with asphalt surface, was laid hardly more than eighteen months ago.

Dock square and its surrounding streets, all paved with granite, are also in bad condition. This section is one in which traffic is particularly heavy. The market district is fed from it and vehicles of every description pass over the street.

Winthrop square and Devonshire street leading through to Summer street are other places that have suffered heavily. Franklin street at the intersection of Arch street has a series of holes that shocks.

Beacon street has been honored with a series of holes that do credit to a poorer section.

GOVERNOR LEADS R. I. 'BIG FOUR'

Republicans at Convention Slight Congressman Stiness, Who Voted for 'Dry' Law

Providence, R. I., April 5.—President Wilson and the League of Nations were denounced by every one of the speakers at the State Republican convention today at Infantry Hall. For the first time in the history of Rhode Island women occupied seats on the platform.

The convention elected its delegates to the national convention at Chicago. The "Big Four" will be Governor R. Livingston Beeckman, Frederick L. Freeman, Joseph R. Fletcher and Theophile Guerin. The district delegates elected were Thomas J. Bodell, Edward A. Sherman, Richard S. Aldrich, George P. Newell, George H. Newell and John F. Holbrook.

A significant feature of the convention was the fact that Congressman Walter R. Stiness was not invited to speak. He occupied a seat on the platform and was the only Rhode Island Congressman that was not called upon to address the gathering. He has been severely criticised by many of his constituents because he voted for the prohibition amendment, and this fact, it is said, led to the evidently intended oversight.

Miss Taft, who is dean and acting president of Bryn Mawr College, is in Los Angeles. A report that she was to marry was printed in a Cincinnati

LARRY McLEAN IN GENEROUS VEIN

Giants' Former Catcher Gives Bayberry Plants Freely for Summer Capitol

Marshfield, April 5.—While hundreds of autoists braved snow, rain, and muddy roads to see the President's new summer White House, the special guards, who were sworn in last week, again were pressed into service at the gates and nobody was admitted to the Juniper Point estate, by order of Mrs. Charles R. Crane, Jr.

Meanwhile the family of Albert C. Swain, Jr., superintendent of the estate, was out scouring the countryside for bayberries. Mrs. Wilson, it has been reported to Mrs. Crane, loves the plant, and in addition she uses the berry for some of the secret ingredients of her preserves. But there is no bayberry bush on Juniper Point. Mr. Swain found a place where the berries could be transplanted and placed to advantage, so the search was begun.

BY LARRY McLEAN'S FARM.

Now it is a long jump from the White House to John McGraw and the New York Giants. It is a fairly leap of the imagination to connect Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Larry McLean, far-famed catcher of the New York Giants, had boy of baseball, and withal one of the most popular men who ever donned the pad and mask. But the connection is there.

When the search party had tried the Lawson estate to find that financier too busy with certain legal exactions to spend time on his Summer place, a well-meaning farmhand told of a farm on the Marshfield Road where the berries grew in abundance. Post haste to the farm.

At the very door of the place the bayberries showed themselves and the only fear of the party was that the owner would prove not too generous. It was a futile fear.

A smiling man, six feet two in his cowhide boots, whose face was vaguely familiar, stepped out to the gate. He was told that the party was in search of bayberries and admitted that he had them in quantities. The man showed the quality of thrift that is a characteristic of Cape Cod folks and evidently was waiting for a price to be named.

Then the American reporter suddenly saw the light. "Larry McLean," he said. "Those things are for the Summer place of President Wilson, and you were a Democrat before you had your run-in with Muggsy McGraw."

"Yes, and I'm still a Democrat," returned the old Giant catcher insistently; "take all the plants you want. Take anything I've got. The League of Nations is the only league I ain't outlawed in."

"GET INTO THE CELLAR."

"It's a fine thing, the President coming down here to the Cape," said Larry. "It's bound to boom all kinds of business, and will boom my chicken farm among others. I got one of the finest farms in the country."

And the eccentric catcher, who was better known along Broadway than George Cohan himself, who was the idol of Cincinnati, and who could never take a manager seriously, talked at length on politics, the President and chickens. Mostly chickens.

In parting he said: "You fellows have written a lot about the Crane place at Juniper Point, but you have overlooked one important thing. You have described the estate, the bungalow, the bathhouse, the big house itself. But there's something deeper than that. Man dear, it's the cellar. Didn't you ever hear tell of Charles R. Crane's cellar? Didn't you ever hear tell of Chateau Yquem, of Pommery Sec, of Burgundy? Man dear, get into the cellar and write the story that the world is waiting to hear."

LIEUT. JOHN L. CONNORS OF ROXBURY MARRIES

Miss Ida Hucksam of Fisher avenue, Roxbury, and Lieutenant John C. Connors of Highland street, Roxbury, were married today by Rev. Father McDonald of the Mission Church at the Shrine of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. Lieutenant Connors was a former superintendent at the Plant shoe factory and is a member of the Jamaica Plain Council, K. of C. They will reside in Worcester, where Mr. Connors is in business.

Cyclops' Name Erased From Navy Roll

By International News Service.

Washington, April 5.—The name of the giant collier Cyclops, missing since March, 1918, with 293 persons aboard, has been stricken from the registry of the United States Navy. Thus "finish" is officially written to what is probably the most mysterious chapter in the annals of the wartime forces of America.

Theories by the dozen have been advanced in an attempt to explain the fate of the big ship, last heard of on March 4, 1918, when, on a voyage from South America to Hampton Roads, with a cargo of manganese, she put in at Barbadoes for coal.

ONE ENGINE DAMAGED.

As the weather in the area through which she must have passed was never such as to give trouble to ship of her size, it is thought unlikely that she came to her end by the ordinary hazards of the sea. It is known that one of her two engines was damaged and that she was proceeding at reduced speed with one engine compounded, but even so she was capable of putting up a powerful fight against a storm and the disabled engine would not have prevented her using the wireless in case of difficulty.

For weeks after she became overdue the seas were swept by powerful radio apparatus in the hope of picking up the Cyclops, and swift scout ships were dispatched from the West Indies, Virginia capes and from Colon to cruise in the South Atlantic and gulf until the ship or some trace of her wreckage were found.

NAVY HUNTS COLLIER.

These efforts were without avail. A general call was sent out to all naval vessels that could be reached, to all merchant craft and other shipping in southern waters, and finally a naval expedition was formed to visit every West Indian island and every charted coral reef in the hope of rescuing survivors, or at least of finding some evidence, such as floating spars, lifeboats or ship's furniture which would indicate the fate of the vessel.

The logbooks of the submarines made accessible since the armistice have been searched in vain for some intimation that the Cyclops was among the victims of the U-boats, and the records of the German admiralty are equally destitute.

Another idea persistently advanced is that the ship was sent to the bottom by the explosion of bombs secreted in her hold by agents of the Kaiser.

A scientist suggests that salt water, coming in contact with the manganese cargo, may have caused the generation of asphyxiating gas in such quantities as to bring about the suffocation of all on board and the ship, lacking a living hand, drifted far out of the path of vessels to be forever frozen in among the ice of the Arctic.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS FOR HALL OF FAME

New York, April 5.—The name of Frederick Douglass, a negro, widely known in his day as a publicist, statesman and journalist, has been proposed as a candidate for the Hall of Fame at New York University. This is the first time that a person of his race has been proposed for the honor, other names presented, of which fourteen will be chosen, to be added this Fall, include Susan B. Anthony, namesake of the Federal suffrage amendment; Barbara Frietchie, heroine of Whittier's Civil War poem; John Clarke, claimed to be the founder of the Commonwealth of Rhode Island; Henry Bergh, founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; George Innes, Homer D. Martin and Alexander H. Wyant, painter.

BELIEVE "SOULMATES" MEET IN NEW YORK

No word has yet been received of Harry Sinclair of Winthrop, the former conductor on the Narrow Gauge Railway, and Mrs. Florence Dilling, the wife of his nearest friend, who eloped after leaving notes stating they had found their "soulmates." According to Charles Efkriges, a taxicab chauffeur, who drove Mrs. Dilling to the Back Bay station, she was not met there by Sinclair. This fact leads to the supposition that the couple planned to meet in New York

RAILROAD MEN FOR SHOWDOWN

Will Take a Vote on Strike, in Belief That Unions Are in Danger

Washington, April 5.—The railroad unions are preparing for a "showdown" fight with the railroad companies, it was learned today.

Leaders admit there is again danger of a general strike. They look upon the act of the carriers in calling off the conferences of the bipartisan wage board and refusing to sign the national agreements with the workers to perpetuate the shorter working hours and improved working conditions granted by the railroad administration as a challenge—the beginning of a movement to disrupt the unions.

At the convention of the railway employes' employment department of the American Federation of Labor to be held in Kansas City, April 12, action will be taken that will determine how railway labor will retaliate—whether it will resort to strike in the immediate future or wait to try political action.

The convention will be attended by delegates from all the shop crafts, representing every railroad system in the country and more than one-half of the 2,800,000 organized railroad workers. The shopmen, railroad clerks and telegraphers already have taken strike votes.

ARNOLD LAWSON BACK ON STAND

Long Forces Retreat From Hearing Room Assigned to Custody Case

Resumption of testimony in the case involving custody of two grandchildren of Thomas W. Lawson, the financier, was considerably delayed today when it developed that two hearings had been assigned to the same room in the court house.

The fight between Arnold Lawson and Lucie Mitchell Lawson, the children's parents, who have brought counter suits for divorce, is being conducted privately in view of the nature of the testimony involved, said to be extremely sensational.

When Frederick L. Norton, master in the case, with counsel and witnesses, arrived at Room No. 229, he found a hearing already in progress in which Richard H. Long, former Democratic candidate for Governor, was the defendant. Thomas W. Proctor was sitting as master, and the principal counsel were Attorneys John W. McAnarney and Charles F. Choate.

After a good deal of friendly tilting and badinage, the Long forces retreated, leaving the field clear for the Lawson hearing. Arnold Lawson resumed the stand for further cross-examination at the hands of Attorney Eldridge R. Anderson. It is understood that his testimony related chiefly to his ability to pay substantial alimony to Mrs. Lawson pending settlement of the divorce suits.

CHURCH IS BURNED IN FRAMINGHAM

Framingham, April 5.—The Unitarian Church on Vernon street, Framingham Centre, was destroyed early today by fire. A general alarm was sounded, bringing all the Framingham apparatus to the scene, and for a time it looked as if several residences in the vicinity were doomed.

The loss is put at $50,000. A safe containing records of the parish for $6,1919 has been filed. The estate is valued at $23,900.

TEAMSTERS END LYNN STRIKE

Accept $5 Increase Pending Final Settlement of Trouble, and Expect $2 More

The strike of 250 teamsters and handlers employed by Lynn coal dealers ended today when the men temporarily accepted a $5 increase. They will return to work tomorrow.

An agreement was reached at a conference between a representative of the dealers, William A. Nealey of the Teamsters' Union and a third party, whereby the question of $2 additional increase will be settled by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

The strikers regarded today's agreement as a victory, being convinced that the arbitration board would grant them their entire demands.

The strike has been in effect since last Thursday, but at no time have hospitals or industries been allowed to suffer for coal.

Strike Stops Delivery of Coal in Lowell.

Lowell, April 5.—The city was without deliveries of coal today following a strike of 150 chauffeurs, teamsters and help of all coal yards. The men rejected an 8 per cent. increase and demanded a 12 per cent. increase, a fifty-four-hour week, Saturday afternoons off with pay and fifty cents extra for upstairs delivery. The increase offered by the company would make the pay of chauffeurs $30.24; teamsters, $25.62 and other help, $25.11.

The dealers said that any further increase would have to be charged up to the public, and that they were unwilling to increase the price of coal over the $1 increase which went into effect last Friday.

An inventory of the estate of Martin Moran of Lowell, who died September 6, 1919, has been filed. The estate is valued at $23,900.

HAVERHILL EAGER TO JOIN BOSTON AMERICAN TENANTS' LEAGUE

Pleas for Relief Continue to Pour in from Oppressed Rent Payers

measures will be taken to prevent this and to at least assure it being voted on.

LANDLORDS FAVOR ORDER.

Even that little coterie of landlords which oppose the spirit of the Hays bill has no opposition to the order for the conference, and only the disinclination of tradition-bound Senators who fear to go against a senseless but established order of things in inviting the public servants to confer on a mighty problem can stand in the way of the adoption of the order.

Every preparation is complete for the big mass meeting at Haverhill tonight. Joseph Goyette, agent of the Shoe Workers' Union, practically every member of which has enrolled in the Boston American Tenants' League, will preside, and it is expected that the City Hall will be crowded. Representatives of the other unions and members of these unions are displaying great interest in the rent problem.

Representative Hays will explain the various provisions of his rent bill, now before the Legislature, and tell of the cases of profiteering which have come to his notice, and led him to frame this measure.

President Victor A. Heath of the Boston American Tenants' League will tell of the aims of the organization to secure legislation which will assure landlords a square deal, while remedying profiteering and attendant evils.

PLEAS FOR AID POUR IN.

The Haverhill Representatives of the State Legislature have accepted invitations to attend the meeting and to speak on this universal problem.

Inclosed with the signed enrollment blanks reaching the rent editor come a wide variety of letters from various parts of the city and State, showing how widespread and intense is the interest in this movement.

Among the letters received today was one from a fourteen-year-old Roxbury boy who writes on behalf of his mother, who has been looking for an apartment for two months, without success. This boy complains, as many older correspondents do, that every landlord visited strenuously objects to children. He writes that the present landlord had neglected to furnish the family with heat or water, and for several months they have been without running water.

Believing that this is a case where the Mayor's Rent Committee can afford relief by enforcing the Board of Health rules, the rent editor is turning this letter over to that body for action.

Worcester Man Attacks Land Juggling

Worcester, April 5—George C. Hunt, chairman of the Worcester Rent Investigating Committee appointed by the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life, gives his views on rent and housing conditions and on the bill to remedy them, introduced by Representative Martin Hays, in the following statement:

"While rent profiteering in Worcester is practised by very few landlords, more than fifty investigations made by the Rent Investigating Committee reveals that unless some drastic legislation is passed by the Legislature at once the practice will grow and become a menace to the peace and happiness of the community.

SCORES LAND JUGGLING.

"The frequent sales of certain pieces of property by a group of speculators who immediately notify the tenants of an increase in rent, is causing a feeling of unrest and emphasizes the necessity of legislation to control this condition.

"I have not had sufficient time to thoroughly digest the Hays bill, but in the main I agree with its provisions.

"I have some doubts owing to the congested conditions in the courts if we could get speedy action upon the many cases that would be referred to them for settlement, but I believe that some legal constituted local authority should be provided to pass upon the complaints at once.

"Section 1, which provides that not more than 10 per cent. net profit on the capital invested shall be allowed, I think is too liberal, as very few pieces of property in Worcester are paying that per cent, and it would also be a great temptation for the landlords to raise their rents to a higher level.

MORE HOUSES NEEDED.

"The crying need at the present time is for increased housing facilities. It seems to me that the responsibility for improving the housing facilities in large cities devolves upon the manufacturing interests who should eliminate the investment feature and make their employes happy and contented by furnishing them with decent homes at a moderate cost."

Mr. Hunt is a member of the Worcester Board of Assessors and is considered an authority on real estate. He was formerly a member of the Legislature.

STRIKE THREAT BY CITY MEN

Asks Union's Permission to Poll Vote in Fight for $1 a Day Raise

All that now separates the city of Boston from a strike by employes in various divisions of the public works department is the official sanction of the International Teamsters' Union with which the men are affiliated.

The workers, who embrace the water, sewer, sanitary, paving and street cleaning divisions, by an overwhelming majority authorized the executive board of Local 143, to request permission from the International body to poll a strike vote.

Union leaders say they hold out little hope that provision will be included in the city budget granting them an increase of $1 a day. The present wage is $4 and the budget provides for an increase of 50 cents a day.

HARVARD FUND IS MAKING REAL ADVANCE

An unbroken daily record of advancement was shown by the Boston district in the Harvard endowment fund during the first six months of the campaign, according to a statement issued from the local headquarters at 60 State street. Subscriptions to the fund were received on each of the 184 days between October 1 and April 1, while the district itself has contributed 29 per cent. of the grand total.

The latest totals are: Boston, $4,218,456; New York, $4,004,788; outside, $3,253,455; total, $12,076,699.

Suitor Turns Informer; Police Arrest Girl

Lawrence, April 5.—Because she three times rejected his offers of marriage, Mary Joseph, of No. 20 Valley street, charged with the larceny of yarn from the Wood mills, claims that her suitor called the attention of the police to stolen yarn and caused her arrest. Mary told the police that she received the yarn from her would-be suitor and took it in payment for the care of his children. She admitted that the yarn was probably stolen from the mill.

When she refused his suit John became vexed and "squealed," Mary said.

"I was going to get the complaint out against him for stealing the yarn but he was too quick for me."

Lena Boules another woman of the same address was arraigned with Mary. The claim was that $52 worth of yarn and $256 worth of cotton cloth were found when the corporation officers raided the premises.

$100,000 FLOOD DAMAGE IN R. I.

Middle Pond Dam Breaks, Inundating Olneyville and Anthony

Providence, April 5.—A forty-five-foot section of the dam at Middle Pond broke without warning releasing a volume of water that in turn tore away a section of the Pesipaug Pond dam, which resulted in a flood in the town of Anthony and at Olneyville. The loss is estimated at more than $100,000.

A section of the town of Anthony was inundated by the bursting of the two dams. The Coventry mill in that town was badly damaged. Elmer A. Capwell, an employe in the Coventry mill, was caught in the wasthouse, but effected his escape by crawling through a window.

Poultry houses, garages and other small buildings were swept away in Olneyville.

Does Your Blood Need Iron?

How to Make the Test That Tells

A pale face, a nervous, irritable disposition, a lack of strength and endurance—these are the warning signals that Nature gives when your blood is getting thin, pale, watery and starving for iron. If you are not sure of your condition, go to your doctor and have him take your blood count, or else make the following test yourself: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. All good druggists sell Nuxated Iron, on the distinct understanding that if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Vienna, April 5.—The Austrian krone is so low in value that the State Chancellor, Dr. Renner, gets less than a dollar a day in American money, according to the rate of exchange today.

His pay is 60,000 kronen yearly. Most Austrians earn less than 1,000 kronen monthly. A suit of clothes costs from 5,000 to 18,000 kronen. A pair of shoes costs 1,500 kronen, while a kilogram of beef costs a worker his week's wages.

STAY ON THE WATER WAGON!

If You Are One Who Has Quit Indulging in Strong Drink.

Cadomene Tablets Will Help You Over the Rough Period

Cadomene Tablets are helpful to weak nerves. Weak, faulty nerves often come from strong drink. Sometimes the system is impoverished by excesses of one kind or another, such as poor digestion and faulty nutrition. Overwork, anxiety, and even grief causes abnormal nervous conditions. The strength of body declines. The strength of will power wanes. Nervousness and sleeplessness cause further weakness and loss of vitality. Years of faithful practice taught a great physician that the formula now used to make Cadomene Tablets would surely build up the health of his patients. Now, anyone can take this great medicine if needed. Mr. G. A. Hoover, R. R. No. 1, Reading, Pa., writes: "I am taking Cadomene Tablets with very gratifying results. Nervousness, overwork, and sleeplessness are my complaints."

Mr. Joe. N. Herndon, 1445 Twenty-fifth st., Sacramento, Cal., writes: "I am using Cadomene Tablets and find a great improvement has been brought about in two days."

Says Fat People Now Rejoice

Testimony Proves Arbolene Safe, Sure Reducer.

Enjoys Wide Sale Amongst Educated, Wealthy Set.

The physician who originated the Anti-Fat treatment known to physicians and druggists as "Arbolene tablets Arbolene" is being praised and thanked by scores of women in the class known as "society devotees."

A literary woman in Los Angeles, being so highly elated over her success in reducing, has written a clever little poem, which recites the facts and expresses deep gratitude as will. To safely and surely reduce from 20 to 40 pounds is easily accomplished when tablets Arbolene are used regularly. They are not drastic or dangerous, used as directed, but simply and surely dissolve the fatty elements and eliminate from the system. Also they remove the craving for such foods as are not desirable for fat folks to use. Herein Arbolene is superior to all other anti-fat medicines, as it automatically overcomes the abnormal, perverted appetite for starchy foods, etc. Sold by all druggists in sealed tubes with full directions.—Advertisement.

From Thin to Plump—Girls

The expressions of happiness and gratitude of several of the young lady patients for whom he prescribed the recently successful Sargol reducing product, known as three grain hypo-nuclane tablets, is related by a physician in one of the medical publications and it comes as a surprise to the ordinary layman to learn the heart throbs of distress which seems to effect so many young people who are abnormally thin. Also to know that the weight can be so readily increased by the use, regularly for several months, of this peculiarly named preparation, now obtainable of the best apothecary shops in sealed packages with complete instructions for self-administration.—Advertisement.

DENIES REQUEST FROM PALMER

Judge Anderson Refuses to Postpone Hearing of Alleged Radicals

A request from Attorney-General Palmer that trial of habeas corpus proceedings for several alleged radicals sought in the Department of Justice dragnet in January be postponed until he could be present was denied today by United States Judge George W. Anderson. The court ruled that the hearing should begin Tuesday.

At the opening of the court Assistant U. S. District Attorney Goldfarb read a telegram from the Attorney-General in which he asked that the hearing be delayed two weeks so that he could appear personally.

Morris Katzes, Jr., attorney for several of the persons arrested, including Professors Felix Frankfurter and Zachariah Chaffee of Harvard, who included themselves in the case as associates, opposed postponement on the ground that the two professors would be unable to attend a hearing on that date. District Attorney Boynton argued for a continuance.

In overruling the motion, Judge Anderson said his probably would not be final and only form a report for a higher tribunal.

Mr. and Mrs. William Collyer of Wellesley, held at Deer Island in $10,000 each, are the principal petitioners. Several other alleged radicals at the island ask that their present bail be reduced. Attorney Katzes asked that the bail of those held in $10,000 be reduced to $1,000 and those held in $5,000 to $100.

Those involved were brought from the island by deputies of the immigration department. Several of the men, including Colyer, wore red neckties. Judge Edgar Aldrich sat with Judge Anderson today to familiarize himself with the case.

STRIKE OF 6 MILLION WORKERS IS PLANNED

New York, April 5.—Plans for a national strike that will call out more than 6,000,000 trade union workers were today declared to be in course of formulation by William A. Maher, vice-president and secretary of the marine workers' affiliation.

"The general walk-out is designed to head off an alleged movement on the part of employing interests throughout the country to do away with the eight-hour day," said Maher. "The preliminary plans, when perfected, will be placed before the labor unions of the nation for indorsement, and them submitted for final action to Samuel Gompers and the executive committee and the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor.

1,500 GRANITE WORKERS IN QUINCY STRIKE

Fifteen hundred granite cutters, polishers and tool sharpeners employed at the Quincy quarries failed to report for work today, following a meeting Saturday night at which they rejected the Boston conference wage agreement. This agreement called for a wage of $6.60 a day, an increase of 60 cents, beginning April 1, with a further increase to $1 an hour on September 1. The workers insisted that the $1 an hour start immediately. Their union refuses to sanction the strike.

HARVARD 'FALLS' FOR MOVIES

Eight Companies Bid for Privilege of Putting University on Screen

Shade of John Harvard—"Unhang me, villain."

Movie Magnate—"Aha, my fine fellow, and so I have got you at last."

Harvard has fallen for the movies, with blond heroes, swarthy villains, sneaky music, lovely ladies, "close-ups" and all the trimmings.

Members of the Scenario Writers' Union are inflating all union rules by working overtime grinding out historical, "educational" and dramatic pictures of the university for the screen.

Harvard graduates are responsible for the innovation. Many of the learned professors favor the idea, while others equally grave proclaim that it is an insult to ancient college traditions.

Advertising of the university is the purpose of those in favor of the "picturization" of Harvard. Eight film companies are bidding for the privilege of putting Harvard, Gold Coast and all, on the silver screen.

Harvard graduates employed by various producing companies are working on scenarios of university life. These scenarios range in character from historical treatises to "thrillers" in the best modern style. Richard Washburn Child is said to be at work on one such movie.

The matter will be considered at the meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs in Washington April 30 and May 1.

WOULD RAISE RATE FOR ATTLEBORO GAS

The Attleboro Gas Light Company, allowed to increase its rate fifteen cents with the understanding that the price would be reduced "when the abnormal war costs disappeared," today petitioned the Department of Public Utilities for authority to make a still higher increase. The rate allowed during the war, and which still is in existence, was $1.35 per 1,000 cubic feet. When that rate was allowed, Solomon Lewenberg, then a member of the old Gas Commission, dissented on the ground that the $1.15 rate yielded the company the equivalent of 12⅞ per cent. dividend on its stock. The company asks for a new rate "which will allow it to do business at a profit."

ATHOL OBJECTS TO HIGHER CARFARES

The selectmen of Athol today protested to the Department of Public Utilities against its action whereby the fares on the Massachusetts Northern Street Railway Company were increased. The lines extend from Fitchburg to Orange. The new rates call for a fare of ten cents for two zones, as compared with the previous rate of six. Charges for each additional zone are five cents, as compared with three under the old schedule. Short-haul passengers are the ones principally affected. The selectmen ask that the fare case be reopened.

CRIPPLE SAYS WOMAN USED PITCHFORK ON HIM

Mrs. Minnie B. Morgan was in court today charged with assault upon a crippled neighbor, William MacMurray, whom it was claimed she beat over the back with a pitchfork when she discovered one of her Italian roosters in his henyard. Witnesses said that MacMurray was fixing a hencoop when one of the Morgan roosters came into the yard, and that Mrs. Morgan attacked and injured him with a pitchfork. Mrs. Morgan was fined $15, which she paid.

IS FINED $100 FOR CARRYING A DIRK

Francesco Gullo, twenty-five, of Border street, East Boston, was fined $100 for having a three-inch dirk in his possession, by Judge Darner in East Boston Court today. Patrolman Hugh L. McNabb arrested Gullo for drunkenness. Gullo is alleged to have reached into his hip pocket when arrested. The dirk was found in his pocket. Gullo also was fined $5 for intoxication.

SENTENCE SOMERVILLE MAN FOR FIGHTING

John A. Crowley, of Bartlett street, Somerville, was given six months today by Judge Sullivan, on charges of assault and battery upon Thomas J. McKeon, of Medford, as the result of an affray in City Square, Charlestown. He appealed and was held in $100. McKeon was found guilty of drunkenness.

Wed Bow-Legged Man, Woman Advises

New York, April 5.—Bald-headed men make the worst husbands, and bow-legged men the best. Take it from Mrs. Amsterdam Schmidt, who writes that three wedding marches have been played for her, and she ought to know.

In a plea of impassioned eloquence, she says to the world:

"Girls, take my advice, and only say 'yes' to the eternal question when the suitor for your hand in marriage has legs that would not stop a pig in an alley."

Mrs. Schmidt's third, and present, is a bow-legged man. Her second was a hairpate—"they lay around with other men's wives and leave a string of broken hearts in their wake, the scoundrels"—and her first, a "bum."

G. G. A. AGAINST CHARTER CHANGE

Insists on Retaining Mayor for Four Years and a Small City Council

In a statement issued today the Good Government Association records itself as opposed to proposed changes in the city charter which would include a two-year term for Mayor and substitute an enlarged City Council elected by districts for the present system. The statement, signed by George H. McCaffrey, secretary, reads, in part:

"The Good Government Association has been working almost twenty years, and will continue working, to establish sound principles of municipal government in Boston. One such principle which has been established is the four-year term for Mayor. This is now used in almost every large city in the United States. Another such principle is that of a small City Council elected at large. This principle is receiving wide application in large American cities. Detroit has copied the Boston council plan outright.

"A large council meant more wild and irresponsible talk, less intelligent discussion and action and greater difficulty in getting able and busy men to serve.

"The present membership of the Council is unsatisfactory, but the remedy is with the electorate, not with the Legislature.

Dance in Lowell to Music by Wireless

Lowell, April 5.—Dancing to music sent by wireless will be a feature of the ball to be given tomorrow night at Associate Hall by the Lowell Radio Club. The exhibition will take place at 8:30 and 11 p. m. This part of the program is in charge of Stuart Briggs, formerly radio instructor at the Harvard Radio School; Walter Butterworth, a government radio inspector, and F. C. Bowditch of Brookline.

UNITED KINGDOM THIRST GROWS

Drank 60 Per Cent. More Alcohol Last Year Than in 1918, Alliance Declares

By International News Service.

London, April 5.—Neither William ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, the American Anti-Saloon League trail-blazer for England, nor the high cost of living, has been able to sidetrack the onward march of John Barleycorn throughout the British Isles.

The United Kingdom last year drank 60 per cent. more absolute alcohol than in 1918, when war restrictions were on more tightly, and spent more than twice as much for it than in 1918, according to George R. Wilson, secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance, today.

The alliance corresponds to the American Anti-Saloon League. Wilson estimated that in the year ended on April 1 the nation's liquor bill will be $1,985,500,000, as compared with $797,853,000 in 1914. Some 76 per cent. was consumed as beer.

Wilson pointed out that the consumption of milk during 1918 in Britain was under twelve gallons per person yearly, or one-half the normal consumption of New York city. The average adult expenditure on liquor is $42 annually.

The increase in both quantity and alcoholic strength of beer shortly after the armistice has resulted in quadrupling the number of arrests for drunkenness.

EPISCOPALIANS TO GIVE $400,000 IN BAY STATE

Episcopalians in the diocese of Massachusetts will be asked to donate $400,000 on April 25, when the nation-wide campaign will reach its climax.

Every communicant, who has been made familiar with the many stressed points in the church's call, will be told in emphatic manner of the necessity of the full amount. Half of the sum hitherto will be raised will be for this diocese and the other half for the church in genral.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Boston for week ending Saturday, April 3-3, on shipments sold out, ranged from 12.50 cents to 30.75 cents per pound, and averaged 19.22 cents per pound.—Advt.

How Bond Bread was created

Hundreds of skillful housewives baked loaves of home-made bread in their own kitchens and submitted them in the Bond Bread Baking Contest.

Then a committee of representative women selected the best of these home-baked loaves.

Expert bakers then copied the crisp brown crust, the firm even texture, the delicious home-made taste of those home-made loaves.

The new loaf was called Bond Bread because the purity of every ingredient is guaranteed by the Bond of the General Baking Company.

His chubby cheeks tell you he's a Bond Bread baby

His cheeks are like round, rosy apples—his muscles firm—his bones straight and strong.

Hours of healthy play—plenty of sleep—and lots of Bond Bread—these are his three secrets of health.

Bond Bread is good food for children because it is patterned after the best home-made bread.

The purity of every ingredient is guaranteed by the Bond of the General Baking Company.

And the Bond Bread process makes each crumb yield its full nourishment in its most digestible form.

Bond Bread is so named because each loaf bears this bond of the General Baking Company.

The court did not agree with Mercier's version of the trouble and ordered him to contribute $10 each week toward the support of his wife.

RAISE $200,000 IN IRISH DRIVE

With This Secured, Boston's $500,000 Quota in Great Bond Campaign Will Be Filled

With a little more than $200,000 turned in cash for Irish bond certificates in Boston, there is still lacking $290,000 to put the city "over the top" in the drive. The latter sum represents pledges in many of the twenty-six wards. Canvassers representing the American commission on Irish Independence today set out to round up these pledges, and it is figured that if everybody who signified their intention to buy a bond makes good by "coming across" with the cash Boston will top the list of cities contributing to the fund.

State Director Patrick J. Moynihan today left for cities and towns in the western part of the State to speed up the drive in these sections. In Holyoke he will confer with representatives of different Irish organizations and arrange for a series of meetings, and from there he will go to Northampton and enlist the services of Irish leaders to assist in the "mopping up process" in neighboring towns. Moynihan expects to return to Boston in time to arrange for a big "victory parade and meeting" in one or the large halls of the city.

From Concord comes word that Division No. 56, Ancient Order of Hibernians, with the assistance of the Ladies' Auxiliary No. 44, made a successful canvass for the sale of the bonds. Patrick McPhillipe sold $800 worth of bonds in that town.

Easier to Remove Than Conceal Wrinkles

When you try to conceal your wrinkles with paste made from beans you deceive yourself only. Let a salve which is powdery but small, appear undisguised. A facial massage is required to be given.

The wrinkles of Martha's are seen in the lessening tendency to avoid the use of mirrors, hide facial defects, and to adopt instead various means of removing the same. For the removal of wrinkles, heaviness of cheeks and sagging, the question is good to the foundation of these troubles, seems to have come into general use since the various beauties known several years ago. One cause of poor health is constipation at any drug store, in the morning, a half pint every month, and as a wash lotion that tightens the skin almost instantly, use Quinley's Witch-hazel and wrinkles and "drawing-in" hanging skin or folds.—Advertisement.

DIAMOND RING TAKES YOUTH AND GIRL TO COURT

Frank J. Dacey, twenty-two, of Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, in Roxbury court today charged Miss Marie Keane eighteen, of Revere, with larceny of a diamond ring valued at $200. Marie claimed that Dacey asked her to marry him and told her to keep the ring. Dacey told the court Miss Keane had admitted the ring and asked the privilege of wearing it. She has since refused to return it, he said. The case was continued until Tuesday.

NEW SUIT FACES SCIENTISTS

Attorney-General to Enter Action Against the Directors and Trustees

Attorney-General Allen is to enter the Christian Science litigation with a suit which will have for its purpose the investigation of both the Board of Trustees and the Board of Directors of the Mother Church. He will act for certain members.

This announcement was made today at the Science headquarters, room No. 817 Little Building. It will make the fourth legal contest which is being waged by the factions of the church.

Under the Supreme Court ruling, the Science organizations come under the head of the benevolent trust. Under the state laws the beneficiaries of such a trust can bring action only through the Attorney-General.

This action and the statement that the 117 churches in Illinois had sent a telegram to the trustees cancelling all of their subscriptions to the church [illegible] except the Quarterly, and [illegible] field would accept no compromise with the trustees and directors were the striking developments today in the now famous [illegible].

It was announced that at a meeting of the Typographical Union yesterday [illegible] voted an agreement [illegible] board of trustees, that the [illegible] in the vacancies [illegible] by the retiring of Scientists [illegible] show no discrimination in the employment of new operators. In the past the trustees, it is said, have given Science men the preference.

SOUTH END MAN HELD IN $3,000 FOR ASSAULT

Clarence Swallingham of Shawmut avenue was sentenced to six months in the Charles Street Jail for assault upon two men in a house on Humboldt avenue by Judge Hayden of the Roxbury Court today. He appealed and was held in $3,000. Swallingham, according to the police, is on probation from the Superior Court on a breaking and entering charge.

NEW YORK AMERICANS AFTER MIKE M'NALLY AND WALLY SCHANG

BATTING OF RED SOX WEAK

Have Only Hit for .194 Against Giant Pitchers — Murphy and Holborrow Released

By JACK CONWAY.

Asheville, N. C., April 5.—Jawn McGraw's Mexican tiger cat and a flock of upper berths on Pullmans failed to frighten off those Yankee scouts. They were still within the Red Sox inner defence today offering to swap an apple for an orchard, as my friend Eddie Mack would express it.

Joe Kelly up and delivered an oration today on how Captain Huston would like to strengthen the Sox by trading Hannah, Pratt and Bodie for Schang, McNally and a first class pitcher. Those Yanks would probably be satisfied with either Hoyt or Russell, as they are the best hurlers we've got.

Of course, Joe doesn't think Schang, McNally and another flinger would help New York at all. Wallie is one of the great catchers in the big leagues, but says that unless Harry Frazee raises the ante he'll remain in Philadelphia where he is planning to conduct one of those airplane joy ride stations where they crash you fifteen bucks for that many minutes close to eternity.

Frazee Says Schang Must Observe Contract

Schang naturally would forget all about airplanes and such things if Frazee would loosen up and surrender some of those iron men he grabbed by selling Babe Ruth. Wallie, however, is signed to a three-year contract, and Frazee declares the player must live up to his agreement or remain out of baseball.

That remain out of baseball is good. Remember Carl Mays. He up and deserved the Red Sox last summer and should have been suspended. Instead, he was sold to the Yankees and made a hero of. So it looks as though Schang won't have to stay out of baseball with about every club in the league willing to get a backstop who ranks with Schang and O'Neill. Frazee is right in refusing to yield to Schang, as the latter is under contract, but we don't think he will let such a remarkable ball player remain on the shelf.

The Sox should try and adjust their troubles with Wallie, as the club needs his old wallop up there at the plate. Wallie can hit around .300 with his eyes closed, and that is more than can be said of a whole lot of birds that wear Boston uniforms.

Sox Batting Weakly in Giants' Series

In the eleven games played with the Giants, the Sox have hit for .194 which doesn't make it necessary for the magazine to replace any boards in the outfield fences around the hush league circuit. The actual batting average for the last four games was .240 which isn't the way they won ball games when Tris and Babe and Duffy were in the Boston lineup.

But back to the Yankee scouts. If we don't watch them closely they are liable to trade out last pair of R V's, a couple of extra shirts and three perfectly good collars for a 1919 baseball pass.

Manager Barrow says he won't have the trade proposed by Kelley. Instead, he would like to give New York Oscar Vitt in exchange for Pratt and Bodie. As Vitt is spending his time in California where he can't get any base hits for the Sox, while Pratt and Bodie are ready to play ball, this would be a mighty fine trade for Boston, but, said to relate, Kelley says the Yanks don't want Vitt. Schang and McNally are the youths they are after.

Barrow Realizes Team Needs Strength

Barrow, however, realizes that unless he gets a few real ball players and rushes all possible strength, he'll have to get his club a franchise in the League of Nations. In such an event Woody would never let the Balkan Slugger and Slovak Terrors treat our boys the way these Giants have been doing.

It looks as though Jawn McGraw's tiger cat has cast some kind of a spell over the Sox. George Burns parades the raw meat safer through the ossified Sox special than he does in twelve times each night. When the Sox retire to their uppers they keep thinking of the wild cat. The result is they can't sleep. So it's an easy thing for the Giants to go out and beat them right the next day. Ed Barrow ought to get a couple of Hot Springs alligators to give battle to McGraw's pet.

Murphy and Holborrow Released to Toronto

The series stood eight to three in favor of the Giants as the teams prepared for today's contest. There are six more games to be played. As soon as the Giants grab another victory, they'll have the honors for the series. If the Sox win six straight, they'll take the series by nine to eight. But how can a club jinxed by a wildcat perform such a feat?

Cuddy Murphy, the former Dartmouth football and baseball star, and Harry Holborrow have been let go to Toronto of the International League. Both youths are pitchers and should do well with Hughie Duffy's outfit.

Speaking of pitchers reminds us that Jones and Pennock were due to go to the box for Boston today. Joe Bush may get a chance if Barrow forgives some unkind things the smoke ball pitcher said to him at Knoxville Saturday.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Cleveland and Cincinnati.

Ohio would have the world's championship within its own borders if only the strength of the regular teams —exclusive of pitchers and catchers— was decisive in baseball.

The dope proves that the Reds, while not a great team, are a little probably not now the best team, possess the best and the most consistent infield and outfield combination in the National, and that Cleveland is far and away the best in the American League.

In other words, if the catching and pitching of Reds and Indians is equal to that of the opposing teams, they will win. Unless we find a heavy handicap against them in the two most important departments of the game, we will have a Pope to (Red-Indian) World's Series next Fall. However, as we have not yet studied the pitching and catching, and as pitching and catching are more than 50 per cent of the defensive game, we cannot do more now than concede that the regular organizations of these two teams are best.

There is nothing like pure mathematical dope, based upon the comparative batting, fielding, hitting, base running, throwing and a personal study of the speed of individuals, to show us the flaws in ball clubs. Ask any student of the game off hand which team in the American League ranks closest to Cleveland in regulars, and probably only one in ten will claim that honor for Detroit. Yet the Tigers show second in the American League with 8254 points, a team considered by many as a goner, is there in third, with the figures to back up the statement that the old infield and outfield organizations of these two clubs still remain dangerous.

Yanks Must Improve to Be in Race

We have heard more this Winter of the New York Yankees than any club in either league, yet the best the Yanks can show, unless they improve their speed and strengthen third base and one outfield position, is to finish fifth in the dope figures, and at that they are nearly 300 points behind the Chicago White Sox, who are supposed to be racketed to pieces.

Plainly the weaknesses of Red Sox, White Sox and Tigers are not in the seven positions already studied. True, much of their figure strength is due to the superiority of certain stars— such as Collins, Weaver and Jackson, Shotten and Hooper, Cobb and Veach, and a great part of it as due to sheer slugging ability. However, these things are given their proper value in figuring the dope, and the figures indicate the team strengths.

The tremendous surprise to me lies in the National League dope which shows the Pittsburgh club only fifteen points behind the world's champions, which means practically equal strength with the Reds in regular strength. It looks as if George Gibson has inherited from Hugo Bezdek the material with which to capture a pennant — providing his pitching and catching staffs stand up.

Last year Pat Moran won with material accumulated by Christy Mathewson.

At that time Moran's regular team figured second in strength, but his pitching staff appeared wabbly and the dope indicated he would be lucky to finish in the first division. The development of his pitching staff gave the Reds their championship. It may be that Pittsburgh may develop enough pitching strength to carry through. With equal pitching the Reds, Pirates and Cards figure so closely together that it would require only a little luck to turn the tables.

Dodgers and Cubs About Even

In this complicated doping the strength of a team depends not only upon the ability of its own players but upon the strength or weakness of opponents. A team with a weak pitching staff loses points. For instance, there is one player who figures sixty points higher this year than he did last, merely because this year he will bat against the pitchers of the team he played with last year. The Cubs, as an instance, show ninety points stronger in offensive strength than they would show if they had to hit against their own pitchers — Vaughn, Alexander and Tyler, in say fifteen games, as other teams must do.

Brooklyn, a team which has made surprising increases in strength, especially in attacking strength, figures almost a tie with the Cubs in regular team strength.

To analyze these figures roughly, let me explain. Detroit will have to excel Cleveland about 3 per cent. in pitching and catching strength in order to have an equal chance to capture the pennant. The New York Yanks must excel about 7 per cent. either by luck or superior pitching and catching. And so on through the entire list.

In the next article we will study the American League catchers. Remember that catching is 15 per cent of the entire defensive strength of a team, so that the individual position values are becoming more important.

FRENCH SHOOTS RECORD ROUND

Covers Number Two Course at Pinehurst in 67—Ouimet and Graham Picked to Win

Pinehurst, N. C., April 5.—Sam Graham and Francis Ouimet were picked to win their semi-final round matches today in the North and South amateur golf championship. Graham met Richard H. Buckenham, of St. Louis, in the upper bracket and Ouimet met Harold Weber of the Inverness Club of Toledo in the lower half.

Graham was the favorite over Buckenham, because of his superior knowledge of Pinehurst golf and the medium class play the St. Louis golfer has shown in the sand courses. The finest round of golf ever shot at Pinehurst was exhibited Sunday by Emmet French, the Southern Pines professional, when he went around the number two course in 67 strokes, setting a new record. Mike Brady shot a 67 on the number two course three years ago, but the layout has been changed since that date, and Emmet's mark will go up on the board. French's card:

Out ..... 4 4 3 4 3 5 4 4 5—36
In ..... 4 4 3 4 4 4 3 5 4—31—67

The 18 card of 31 has never been equalled here. Par coming home is 35 and the pars are not easy.

NATIONAL TITLE BOUTS TONIGHT

Entry List Best Ever Carded; Armory A. A. and Fenway A. A. to Show Wednesday

Several of the amateur champions of the various districts throughout the country arrived today to compete in the national amateur championship bouts which take place tonight and tomorrow at Mechanics Building under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association.

Never before has such a large number of good amateurs been listed in the annual tournaments, entries from Frisco, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and New York, show that there is plenty of good material for this year's titles.

The Armory A. A. and Fenway A. A. have selected good cards for Wednesday night. The former will hold forth at the Grand Opera House and the Fenway Club at Mechanics. The card at the latter club consists of three twelve-rounders and, on paper, looks like one of the best cards of the season. At Calzone meets Frank Tiffo, Paul Doyle swaps punches with Harvey Adair, and Pal Reid will endeavor to lay Johnny Wilson at rest.

At the Armory Club, Johnny Downes of South Boston will meet Harry (Kid) Brown of Philadelphia, in the semi-final at this show. Bert Jones of Revere meets Johnny Brown of Newport.

CARPENTIER TO WATCH AMERICAN HEAVIES

Newark, N. J., April 5.—Georges Carpentier will be a ringside spectator here tonight when six American heavyweights do battle before the Newark Sportsmen's Club. Three star eight-round bouts will bring together Gene Tunney and Dan O'Dowd, Willie Meehan and Al Roberts and Charlie Weinert and Ole Anderson.

HEHIR TO REFEREE WRESTLING BOUTS

Paddy Hehir will be the third man in the ring at the all-star wrestling carnival Thursday night in Mechanics Building. Hehir has been indisposed for over two months, but is again fully recovered and will be back on the job, according to a letter received by Promoter Tuohey.

HODDER ELECTED TO LEAD NEWTON SEVEN

Bets Hat McGraw Quits the Giants

By W. S. FARNSWORTH.

New York, April 5.—Rumors of a fat fight between Charles A. Stoneham, president, and John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, that drifted here from Havana a few weeks ago, were strenuously denied by officials of the local National League club at the time. However, the writer heard last night that there still is some friction in the club, and one lieutenant bet us a hat that this will be McGraw's last year with the team.

"Stoneham has made up his mind to replace McGraw, and also Judge Mcquade, the club's treasurer," said our informant, who, by the way, is a very close friend of the owner. "It is true that McGraw and Stoneham came to blows in Havana. In fact, they had two fights down there," he added.

We hope that Stoneham and McGraw will patch up their troubles, that is, if there really is any serious trouble. It would be a sad blow to New York to lose McGraw. He "made" the National League in this man's town, and the fans are likely to rebel if he is allowed to drift away.

BRAVES OUT TO WALLOP TIGERS

Charleston Victory Gave Bostonians 6-to-4 Lead Which They Wish to Better

By NICK FLATLEY.

Huntington, W. Va., April 5.—Plushed with victory and Pullman sides, the Braves started out on the ultimate week of their baseball and railroad training in this place and pleasant corner of mountainous West Virginia.

Nobody ever imagined that the Stallings troupe could win six out of ten games against Hugo Jennings and his collection of mean bludgeon wielders, but such is one history. The sixth victory has been impressively stuffed into the bat bag over in Charleston. It made it a very pleasant Sunday for George Tweedy Stallings, who observed that Richard Rudolph's sore arm was a myth, and that Dana Fillingim could continue to twist spit balls around the hostile lickorice.

Richard and Dana, between them, held the Tigers to eight hits or so, and but for the slow condition of the infield the American Leaguers would have been shut out. Today Eddie Eayrers and Joseph Oeschger were in fine trim to keep on the good work and carve off another win.

The Braves are actually cheesy getting after their rival stars, and have a peculiarly sarcastic line of talk that rankled in the breasts of the enemy, even though the games are for keeps. The Braves pitchers have really made the sluggers look foolish for the past two days, and if that can be done to the Tigers it can be done to a bunch of outfits in the home circuit.

It will be recalled that a year ago the team was terribly battered by the Tigers in the Spring series, and then came home and dropped nine or ten straight in the real conflicts. The birds were licked before they started, but this year they will have to be shown, which promises a better brand of baseball for Boston in 1920.

Brookline Grid Dates

The Brookline High eleven will open its season September 25 at Whitney Oval, with the following schedule are; October 2 (open); 12, Malden; 16, Cambridge Latin; 23, Ringe & Latin; 30, Medford. THE YOUNG DIANA

An Experiment of the Future

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

By Marie Corelli

CHAPTER IX.

DIANA listened to the quiet, emphatic tones of his voice in fascinated attention.

"Light is Life," he repeated, slowly. "Light—and the twin portion of Light—Fire. The Rosicrucians have come nearer than any other religious sect in the world to the comprehension of things divine. Darkness is Chaos—not death, for there is no death—but confusion, bewilderment and blindness which gropes for a glory instinctively felt but unseen. In these latter days, science has discovered the beginning of the wonders of Light—they have always existed, but we have not found them, loving darkness rather than light.'

"I say the 'beginning of wonders,' for with all our advancement we have only become dimly conscious of the first vibration of the Creator's living presence. Light—which is God walking in His garden—which is color, sound, heat, movement—all the Divine Power in eternal radiation and invisibility—this is Life—and in this we live—in this we may live, and renew our lives—ay, and in this we may retain youth beyond age! If we only have courage!—courage and the will to learn!"

Brilliant Eyes

His brilliant dark eyes turned upon her with a searching steadfastness, and her heart beat quickly, for there was something in his look which suggested that it was from him he expected "courage and the will to learn." But she made no comment. Suddenly, and with an abrupt movement, he pulled with both hands at a lever apparently made of steel—this one of the handles in a sliproll box—and with his action the level floor beneath the great revolving wheel yawned asunder, showing a round pool of water, black as ink and seemingly very deep. Diana recoiled from it, startled. Dimitrius smiled.

"Suppose I asked you to jump in?" he said.

She thought a moment.

"Well—I should want to take off my dress first," she answered. "It's a new one."

"You would not be afraid?"

"No—I should not be afraid!"

"Upon my word, I believe you! You're a plucky woman! And then you've nothing to lose by your daring, having lost all—so you told me. What do you mean by having lost all?"

"I mean just what I say," she replied quietly. "Father, mother, home, lover, youth, beauty and hope! Isn't that enough to lose?"

And, as she spoke, she gazed almost unseemingly at the wonderful Wheel as it swung round and round, glittering with a thousand colors which were reflected in the dark mirror of the water below it. The sun was sinking, and the light through the overarching glass dome was softer, and at each minute became more subdued—and she noted with keen interest that the revolution of the wheel was less rapid and dizzying to the eye.

Defy Nature

"Enough to lose — yes" said Dimitrius. "But the loss is quite common. Most of us, as we get on in life, lose father and mother, home, and even lover!—but that we should lose youth beauty and hope is quite our own affair! We ought to know better!" She looked at him in surprise.

"How should we know better" she asked. "Age must come—and with age the wrinkling and spoiling of all beautiful things—and nothing of the sense and pains and ailments common to a general breakup of the body—cells. We cannot defy the law of Nature."

"That is precisely what we are always doing" said Dimitrius. "And that is why we make such trouble for ourselves. We not only defy the law of Nature in a bodily sense, as in over-eating and drinking and over-breeding, but we ignore it altogether in a spiritual sense. We forget—and willfully forget, that the body is only the outward manifestation of a Soul-creature, not the Soul-creature itself. So we starve the Light and feed the shadow, and then foolishly wonder that, with the perishing Light, the Shadow is absorbed in darkness."

His pulled at the steel lever again, and the mysterious pool of water became swiftly and noiselessly covered as part of the apparently solid ground.

"One more thing before we go," he resumed, and, taking a key from his pocket, he unlocked a tiny door no bigger than the door of a child's doll house. "Come and see!"

Diana obeyed, and bending down to peer into the small aperture disclosed, saw therein a tube or pipe no thicker than a straw, from which fell slowly drop by drop a glittering liquid into a hollow globe of crystal. So brilliant and fiery was the color of this fluid, that it shot forth long rays, essence of the very sunlight. She looked at Dimitrius in silent inquiry. He said nothing—and presently she ventured to ask in a half-whisper:

"What is it?"

His expression, as he turned and faced her, was an awful mask figured as to be quite extraordinary.

"It is life—or it is death" he answered. "It is my Great Experiment of which you will be the practical test. Ah, now you look amazed, fcked—now your eyes are almost young in wonder!—and yet I see no fear! That is well! Now think and understand! All this mechanism—which by far more complex than you can imagine—this dome of crystal above us—this revolving wheel moved by Light alone—the deep water beneath us through which the condensed and vibrating Light rushes with electric speed, these million whirling atoms of fire—all this, I say, is merely—remember!—merely to produce these miniature drops, smaller by many degrees than a drop of dew, and so slowly are they distilled, that it has taken me ten years to draw from these restless and opposing elements sufficient quantity for my great purpose. Ten years!—and after all, who knows? All my thought and labor may be wasted!—I may have taken the wrong road! The fiery sword turns every way, and even now I may fail!"

Great Experiment

His face darkened—the hope and radiance died out of it and left it grey and drawn—almost old, and Diana laid her hand on his arm with a soft, consoling touch.

"Why should you fail?" she asked gently. "You yourself know the object of your quest, and the problem you seek to solve—and I am sure you have guessed no point that could avail to lead you to the right direction. And if, as I now imagine, you need a human life to risk itself in the ultimate triumph of your work, you have mine entirely at your service. And I have told you several times already, I assure you, fearlessly."

He took the hand that lay upon his arm and kissed it with grave courtesy.

"I thank you" he said. "I feel that you are perfectly sincere—and honestly always have had courage. Understand, my mother has never seen this workshop of mine—she would be terrified. The dome was built for me by my French architect, ostensibly for astronomical purposes—the rest of the mechanism, bit by bit, was sent to me from different parts of the world and I put it up myself, assisted only by Vasho, my native servant, who is dumb. So my secret is, as far as possible, well kept."

"I shall not betray it" said Diana gently.

He smiled.

"I know you will not," he answered.

With almost a miser's care he locked the tiny door which contained the mystery of the fiery-golden liquid dropping so slowly almost reluctantly, into its crystal receptacle. The sun had sunk below the horizon, and shadows began to creep over the clearness of the dome above them, while the great wheel turned at a slower pace—and ever more slowly as the light grew dim.

"We will go now," he said. "One or two ordinary people are coming to dine—and your luggage will have arrived. I want you to live happily and healthfully—your health is a most important consideration with me. You look thin and delicate."

"I am thin—to positive scragginess," interrupted Diana, "but I am not delicate."

"Well, that may be; but you must keep strong. You will need all your strength in the days to come."

They were in the closed door of the laboratory, which by some unseen contrivance, evidently controlled by the pressure of the hand against a particular panel, swung upwards in the same way as it had done before, and when they passed out, slid downwards again behind them. Lights were in the corridor now, dimly lit by one electric lamp.

"You are not intimidated by anything I have shown you" said Dimitrius, then. "After all, you are a woman and entitled to nerves—"

"Quite so—nerves properly organized and well under control," answered Diana, quietly. "I am full of wonder at what I have seen, but I am not intimidated."

"Good!" And a sudden smile lit up his face, giving it wonderful charm. "Now run away and dress for dinner! And don't puzzle yourself by thinking about anything for the present. If you must think, wait till you are alone with night and the stars!"

He left her, and she went upstairs at once to her own rooms. Here repose and beauty were exhausted in all her surroundings and she looked about her with a sigh of comfort and appreciation. Some effectual hand had set vases of exquisite orange flowers here and there—and the scent of roses, carnations and Autumn violets made the air sweet and sweeter. She found her modest luggage in her bedroom, and set to work unpacking and arranging her clothes.

What's In a Name?

CECILIA

CECILIA, signifying blind, is said to be derived from Coeles Vivenna, an Etruscan general, who named the Coelian Hill and Coelian Gens. The women of this family were given the name of Celio or Celia. In Venice the latter became Zilia and Ziliola, which are often found to belong to the noble ladies who were the wives of the Doges. At Naples the name became Lilliola.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing

The Irish have adopted it as Sile or Sheelah. Celie and Celia are used both in France and England, probably with some mystic notion of the connection with heaven, whose Latin name is Caelum. It is said that the prevalence of Celia in English towns is due partly to the popularity of the Irish Sheelah and partly to a confusion with Cecilia.

Perhaps the best known bearer of the name Cecilia was that gentle saint who has furnished inspiration for painters throughout the centuries. St. Cecilia was one of the early Christians martyred at Rome in 230. She is said to have converted her husband, also afterwards martyred, despite the fact that she was forced to marry him after she had taken a vow of celibacy. She is considered the patron saint of music, and legend has it she played so beautifully that she drew the angels from heaven. It is in this capacity that she has usually been pictured.

Cecilia's talismanic stone is a moss agate. It is said to give to the wearer a bold heart and freedom from danger. The moss agate is generally worn as an amulet, rather than as a piece of decorative jewelry, and indeed, in recent years the demand for it has been enormous in Soudan, where such talismans are fashioned.

Cecilia's lucky day is Tuesday, and 3 is considered her lucky number.

Legitimate Sport

An anxious sportsman, his gun under his arm, was wandering down a country lane when he met a small boy making for school. "I say, my boy," he remarked, "is there anything to shoot down here?" The boy looked around for a moment and then answered with eagerness, "Ay, there's the skulemaster comin' over the hill!"

Either Way

A hospital nurse was examining an orderly on his practical knowledge of first aid work. "Now, what would you do if a man collapsed?" she asked. "Give him some brandy, nurse," replied the man. "But suppose you had no brandy?" "Well, then," he answered cheerily, "I'd promise him some, miss."

Nothing Left

"Pa, a man's wife is his better half, isn't she?" "Yes, my son." "Then if a man marries twice there isn't anything left of him, is there?"

When a Girl Marries

Interesting Story of the Trials and Jealousies of a Bride

By Ann Lisle

WHEN we got into the elevator after saying our farewells to Anthony Norreys, Valeria turned on me with an unwelcome announcement:

"I'm coming in to wait for Jim and Lane, if you don't mind."

"Of course," I acquiesced, avoiding a statement as to whether or not I minded.

Once in our apartment Valeria promptly began what I felt was her plan of campaign.

"Thank you so much for—rescuing me. That Mason man is—of very difficult. Didn't you find him so?"

And I guessed that the crux of whatever situation Val was working toward lay in her emphasis on "Didn't you find him so?"

"Tom is one of Jim's oldest friends," I hedged.

"And so, of course, blind to the fact that Jim's wife is a woman—and therefore to be loved," said Val, curling up on the couch and fitting a cushion at back of her head as she brought out her words with lazy and expressive pauses.

The Jim Val and a few weeks ago would have protested then:

"But Val, I am loved—loved by my husband and Tom Mason knows it. And he isn't interested in me that way. Do you think I'd permit such a thing?"

The Jim of today knows how stupid protests are when directed at an indirect person like Val. Valeria Cosby had a purpose in coming to my table and joining Carlotta and Tony and me. She furthered that purpose by coming into my apartment. And in her own good time, unless I sidetracked her by saying too much, she would carry out her design. So I proceeded warily. I wanted to understand the jumble of motives that had swept Val into a friendship with Tom and had led her first to try to hide it from me and now to offer confidences about it.

Val Merely Laughs

So instead of protesting that Tom Mason's interest in me was entirely platonic, I said:

"Don't you think Tom is capable of an unemotional attitude toward a woman?"

Val laughed, crinkling her long eyes at me across the table by the corn. Val made a great show of selecting and lighting just the right cigarette. Then she took a long breath and tentatively, exhaling a cloud of gray smoke, she said indolently:

"You're frightfully in love with Jim, aren't you?"

"Yes—and I don't care who knows it," I replied recklessly.

"That's just as well, since the whole world can see it," said Val dryly. "Do you think it's really clever of you, Anne? Jim's so sure of you he doesn't have to fight to hold you. . . . Or is that aloof but attractive Norreys man your method of—keeping Jim guessing?"

Now I had to give direct answer—for I didn't propose to have Val stumbling around the garden of my heart, treating the most precious flowers as if they were weeds.

"I don't keep Jim guessing, as you put it, Valerie. I'm willing he should know and the whole world see that he has my heart—all of it. As for Mr. Norreys, he is a remarkable man and I'm proud that he happens to like me."

"Oh—dear me—Lady touch-me-not!" cried Val, sitting up on the couch tailor-fashion and gazing at me narrowly through smoke clouds. "I didn't know Mr. Norreys was too sacred to mention. Well, I won't again—not before Jimmie or Lane—or anyone. How's that?"

"There is no reason why you shouldn't mention him. He is a dear friend of our great friends the Winstons, and Jim was once in his employ," I said carefully.

I was angry at myself for resenting Val's attitude. Since there was no mystery for her to discover, why should I feel that she was impairing one or insinuating one? In my heart I knew that if Valeria were to tell Jim of meeting Tony, her emphasis, her innuendos would make it forever impossible for me to have my husband's love as completely as I possessed it now unless I forswore him the friendship I couldn't in decency and fair-play cast aside. While if I could talk to the dear, reasonable Jim I had conjured into being, he would see things clearly, sanely. I must stop Val from mentioning Tony—but I must not be driven to asking her to keep silence and share this knowledge with me as if it were a secret. I couldn't permit Valeria Cosby to think she "had something on me."

New Tailored Suits

By Rita Stuyvesant.

NOT in many seasons have we seen such attractive tailleurs as this Spring, ones that make no claim to femininity, but are smartly mannish in style. Of course the favored fabric is tricotine and the best kind color may be had with plenty of black silk braid trimming.

Embroidery, too, still holds its own for street wear, and while there is a great deal of black chosen, occasionally one sees brick red or dull green trimmed with delicate design on the front of a coat suit. And silver and gold thread continue to be popular, the perhaps silver and gold will always do in this material little world of ours.

One of the smartest tailored suits I have seen this Spring is cut from tricotine and insures its style by buttoning down the front below the belt line. Black bone buttons were selected and the buttonholes were bound in braid. Notched and braid bound, too, were the revers and the narrow saddle belt headed a rather full though circular peplum. Then the skirt formed a pleasing contrast by being brief and narrow and lapped over at the back for style.

Slit pockets are among the interesting developments on the newer suits. Three horizontal slits on either side of the front are smart when outlined with braid and are often the only trimming on a suit.

Tucks fine and plentiful form a pretty network on the jacket of another suit and also form the long tight sleeves. Even the belt is made of pin tucks and the patch pockets too show this novel decoration. The skirt that accompanied this jacket was not scant a bit, but rather inclined to be full and pleaty.

A stunning suit of tricotine for dressy wear was developed in cocoa colored material with embroidery in a slightly darker shade. The hip-length coat featured slim revers on a long roll collar opening to the belt line. The lower part was lavishly embroidered in wool in a close pattern. Brown buttons closed the front and formed a charming contrast to the cocoa color. The skirt to this smart suit wisely chose to be accordion pleated, as all smart skirts do this season.

But for those who prefer a dark suit for dressy occasions there is an elaborate model in a navy blue with self-color embroidery that is truly ravishing. Then, as if this were not enough to please the most fastidious femininity, the designer has added a clever little vest of brocade and a skirt heavily bordered with silver. Thus does Fashion speak for Springtime wear and plans to "suit" all womankind.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis.

SAY, have you ever thought of ways that man is like a ship that goes through fair or stormy days, through smiling tides or fog and haze upon a long, long trip? The sea and wind are stronger far than any ship that sails, but with the aid of chart and star and the clear-seeing mariner the ship defies the gales. The sea is vast, the ship a fleck upon its shining breast, and yet, escaping storm and wreck and waves that dash and winds that check, she comes safe home to rest. And though she sails uncharted ways, if she but sight the star, it guides her on through the fearful maze of shoal and rock and bar. It shines so far, it shines so white! And lof the ship will come out of the blackness of the night into the steady beacon-light that marks the shores of home. But sometimes clouds hang thick and dark, the wind, a wild bird flies, and there is not a light to mark the progress of the lonely bark in all the leaden skies. Through strange, fierce seas her way is made, and yet within her breast some high hope glimmers unafraid, she threads the blackness undismayed, sure of her final rest. She waits until the star shall gleam fairer than e'er before; the star that makes past darkness seem only the shadow of a dream that shall return no more. Oh, wind and wave and hope of rest, man knows for what they are, as on the dark or sparkling crest of life's forever-changing breast he watches for the star.

Household Suggestions

Clear or good cigarette ash makes an excellent polish for silverware.

To fasten loose handles in chests of drawers, apply powdered alum warmed in an iron spoon.

* * *

For tired feet take a little methylated spirit in the palm of the hand and rub about four or five times on the soles of the feet.

* * *

To prevent cane or bamboo from turning yellow when washed, use warm salt water; rub with soft cloths until dry.

* * *

Oilcloth or linoleum should not be washed with hot suds. Use tepid water and wipe with a cloth dampened in equal parts of cold milk and water.

* * *

To preserve patent leather shoes and boots, clean with a rag dipped in milk, then polish with a piece of old velvet. This prevents the leather from cracking.

* * *

Nasturtium seeds used as capers are good if the seeds are gathered before too hard and kept for a day or two with salt sprinkled on them; put into bottles, pour boiling vinegar over them and cork when cool.

* * *

All starched garments should be brought in rather damp, folded ready for ironing, and allowed to lie all night.

* * *

To prevent silverware from discoloring, put a lump of camphor in the case with the silverware when packing it away.

Before using table oilcloth, paste at each corner on the wrong side a square of cotton. This prevents the corners from wearing out as soon as they otherwise would.

This Tells You How to Get Benefit of the Best Senna

Finest Grade of Egyptian Senna Leaves used in compounding Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

PROMINENT importers and wholesale dealers in crude drugs and medicinal herbs gathered from all parts of the world do not hesitate to say that the market for the better grades of medicinal herbs, roots, oils, etc., is practically confined to the leading manufacturers of the so-called package medicines, who buy only the very best, and that the manufacturers of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are the largest users of the best grade of Egyptian senna leaves in the world.

The potency of a tea brewed from senna leaves to relieve constipation has long been recognized, not only by the medical profession, but by the public generally; in fact, senna has been known and used in medicine for more than five centuries. The cheaper grades of senna, such as are usually sold at retail, have, however, a tendency to gripe and cramp which makes their use unpopular with most people.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the finest Egyptian senna is combined with pepsin and other valuable ingredients, essential oils and pure cane sugar syrup to make an exceptionally valuable tonic-laxative for the relief of constipation and resulting disturbances of the stomach and bowels. The complete formula is plainly printed in English, French, and Spanish on every package. Thousands who formerly thought an infusion made of senna leaves now use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin instead. It is sold in drug stores everywhere.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there hang over a million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 511 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a foul breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

LIMERICK NO. 50

The completed Limerick reads as follows

When woman her first vote will cast,
'Twill be different far from the past,
Mere men will kow-tow,
Politicians will bow,
But for God, Country, Home, she'll stand fast

Mrs. Clara M. Harris was Clara Moore, a popular public school teacher before marriage, and says writing limericks is "great fun." "The Boston American was my favorite newspaper before you told me I had been successful. I read the American religiously every day and it is a habit with me that I thoroughly enjoy," said Mrs. Harris at her home, No. 156 Reynolds avenue, Providence. Mrs. Harris is a member of the Calvary Baptist Church and was diligently engaged in Red Cross canteen work during the war. She said in part:

"I suppose I wrote fifty answers and scanned the American every day eager to try again if I failed. I took delight in reading of the names of successful "best last line" writers and compared my trial with theirs to see where I was amiss. I feel for the good fun there was in it, and consider the $150 a very welcome Easter present. I am so glad."

Simms Magneto and Waldorf Sell at Record Highs; Curb Market Steady

Irregularity marked the reopening of the Boston market, and it did not alter in this respect during the forenoon. At the opening most active issues showed gains. Later the majority were lower. Trading was of average volume and somewhat narrow. Copper was quiet. Simms Magneto and Waldorf sold at highest record prices. They were active also. Carson Hill was another prominent stock, but receded. United Fruit sold off three points on a few sales, but recovered part of the loss. Amoskeag was among the strongest issues, but was not active. Elsed sold ex-dividend and more than recovered its disbursement on the first sale.

Point more advantageously were made during the morning by Swift & Co., United Drug, Ohio Body and Eastern Steamship. Among issues in which smaller gains were Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, Island Creek, Old Dominion, American Oil and Big Ledge.

Point or more declines were sustained by Ahmeek, Allouez, Carson Hill, International Products and Gray & Davis. Issues to recede fractionally included National Leather, Wickwire, Orpheum, North Butte, New Haven and United Shoe.

CURB HAD STEADY START.

The Curb market was quiet at the opening, but it was steady during the morning and nothing unusual characterized trading. Black Hawk was the most active issue at the start and sold off 11 cents at the outset. It receded further later. Among other weak stocks were Denbigh. Imperial, Midway, Simms Petroleum, Red Warrior and Gulfport. Strong ones were Oilfield, Arizona Extension, Atlas Tack, Eureka, Mutual Trust, Silver Reef and United Verde Extension. The last named more than recovered its dividend.

By 11 o'clock Oilfield was up 1 at 44 and Nixon Nevada one cent at 21 cents, while Arizona Silver had declined 1-16 to 1 3-16, Gulfport 1 cent to 14 cents, Black Hawk 14 cents to 81 cents and Red Warrior 3 cents to 26 cents.

JAPANESE PREPARE TO MILL MORE COTTON

Cotton manufacturing in Japan is growing apace and Japanese manufacturers are preparing to increase their output. They not only have the advantage of cheap labor, but are obtaining comparatively new machinery equipment. They have been quietly buying second-hand machinery in this country and shipping it to Japan, where spindles will be assembled by native machinists.

They are buying second-hand machinery because it is cheaper. It is estimated it will be producing cloth long before it would be possible if they awaited the delivery of new equipment. All this will be felt by New England in the future.

OIL AND STEEL ISSUES OFF

Prices Rally During a Quiet Morning; Sugars Strong From Start

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak at New York at noon, but well above the lowest morning level. There was a rally in the second hour in which Crucible was conspicuous. It advanced seven points from its forenoon low. Corn Products sold at its record highest price. U. S. Realty advanced to its year's highest. Sugars remained strong. Call money renewed at 7 per cent. and then dropped to 6 per cent. Sterling exchange was firmer and soon after the opening sterling was offered at 4.00½ for cables, the highest since December 1.

Among weakest stocks were Mexican Petroleum, Texas Company, American International and Atlantic Gulf. They were off from one to nearly three points. Strongest issues included Crucible, Corn Products, Stromberg, U. S. Realty, Studebaker, Beet Sugar and Punta Alegre. They were up from one to four points.

EQUALLY PRICE RECESSIONAL.

When the exchange reopened after the Easter holidays, prices were irregular as to changes at first and then took a downward course. The market ruled weak during the first hour, and equalled volume was above the level at the end of that period, the majority of issues continued to show losses. Oils receded the most, steels were weak and so were motors. Rails sold lower. Reading, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific showing the largest losses in this department. Trading in coppers was negligible. Sugars were the strongest group, advancing from fractional to nearly two points. Corn Products sold at its year's highest and Keystone Tire made a good gain. Trading was of moderate volume during the morning.

TRADING SENTIMENT THE SAME.

The week began with trading sentiment showing little change. The professional element is still inclined to view and doing about all the speculating. The public is not in the market to any extent at present and is not likely to dabble in stocks until the money rate is lowered. The passing of the first quarter day and relief from the train, incidental to April 1 settlements has created an easier feeling in banking circles. The situation is now better in the East than in the West, according to federal reserve bank reports. In financial districts the opinion obtains that the money situation in general should be more comfortable this month than it has been previously this year. Industrial authorities report that the business outlook is good and while there is more conservation about buying by business interests than for many months, trade prospects are considered bright. Much will depend upon crop developments.

PROSPERITY FALSE, SAYS VANDERLIP

Chicago, April 5.—America has entered an era of false prosperity, Frank A. Vanderlip, formerly president of the National City Bank of New York, declared in an interview today. He is en route to Japan.

"Incomes today are larger than ever before. Profits are larger. Yet fresh capital for business enterprises is less available than ever before. The chief reason for this is the government taxes.

"But even were taxes reduced, the situation would not be sound. The consumers in that labor is fifty per cent. efficient. There is no non-employment today. And yet, despite this fact, our productivity is lower than it has ever been.

"The inflation in our currency and of bank credit has more than anything else been responsible for the 250 per cent. rise in prices in the last six years."

Stutz Motor Stock Dividend

The huge stock dividend declared by Stutz Motor directors after the governing board of the New York Stock Exchange had suspended trading in the stock of that company on the floor of the exchange, calls for the disbursement of 50,000 shares and increases in capitalization to a total of 200,000 shares of no par value. The new stock will be distributed in four instalments of 20,000 shares each, and as follows: On July 8, 1920, to stockholders of record on June 15, 1920; on October 1, 1920, to stockholders of record on September 15, 1920; on January 27, 1921, to stockholders of record on December 15, 1920, and on April 8, 1921, to stockholders of record on March 15, 1921. Stockholders will hold a special meeting on May 5 to sanction the increase. Allen A. Ryan has resigned as president of the company and is succeeded by William N. Thompson of Indianapolis. Mr. Ryan is now chairman of the board.

May Be Listed This Week

Common stock of the John T. Connor Company may be listed on the Boston Stock Exchange this week. The par value of the stock has been reduced from $100 to $10 a share and the common now amounts to 90,000 shares.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, April 5.—Unfavorable weather on the boll inside the cotton market opening of trading today. Prices opened 30 to 50 points lower on cable and commission house selling. No heavy buying by commission houses and local interests was added support from Liverpool. On the rise there was free profit taking and prices were easily depressed after early high levels. Opening prices were: May 27.50; July 27.50; October 24.50; December 24.05; January 23.90; February 23.50.

State Bonds Awarded

The Massachusetts bonds issued to finance the purchase of the Chelsea railways, amounting to $7,868,000, have been awarded to the Estabrook & Co. syndicate. The syndicate bid was 6.815 per cent. basis for the bonds, which are to run for 20 years. Other bonds awarded May 1, 1921 to May 1, 1940 and $6,000,000 to mature May 1, 1920, to May 1, 1939.

FAMOUS HOUSES MERGE INTO BLAIR AND CO., INC.

Blair & Co., Incorporated, represented at its offices on State street, Boston, by Guy E. Carlton, is a merger of two old and famous banking houses, it formally taking over today the general business of underwriting and dealing in investment securities conducted by Blair & Co. and by William Salomon & Co. The partners of both firms will be affiliated with Blair & Co. Incorporated. C. Ledyard Blair will be chairman of the board and Elisha Walker and William Salomon & Co. will be president. The board of directors comprises:

C. Ledyard Blair, George Arnold, Frank C. Huntington, James Gamble, Henry Holmes, Henry Stanley, J. Thomas Cochran, Edmund Converse, Thomas Clifford, Edward P. Haves, Clarence Lewis, George N. Lindsay, Albert H. Marston, Hadley S. Mason, Dudley Milliman, Alonzo Potter, Lewis P. Read, Elisha Walker, Jacques Wertheim and Jerome Jones.

The new management will be in the hands of the executive committee consisting of Messrs. Harry Stanley, Elisha Walker, Hunter Wertheim, Thomas Cochran, George Arnold, Clarence Lewis and J. Chester Lovell.

The new company has branches in the principal cities of this country, from coast to coast, and in London, Paris and Geneva. Lee, Higginson, Lee, Knowlton, Bow with Wilson also merge into it.

Facing Keen Competition

It will not be long before American manufacturers will be facing keen competition from foreign interests in the markets of this country. This is shown by increasing imports. From England for February this year merchandise receipts aggregated $52,000,000 compared with $13,000,000 for the corresponding 1919 month, from France to $13,000,000, against $5,000,000 and from Italy to $8,000,000 compared with $2,000,000. This competition, however, ought to go far in reducing the high cost of living.

O'SULLIVAN IN FINE VOICE

Large Symphony Hall Audience Hears Irish Tenor in Wide Range of Airs

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Despite bad weather and two other concerts, Tetrazzini and the Handel and Haydn, John O'Sullivan, the Irish tenor drew a full house to Symphony Hall in the evening.

The concert was under the auspices of the League of Catholic Women and Catholic society was out in force. A large sum was realized to provide the sinews of war for the bazaar which is to come in a fortnight.

ACCOMPANIED BY WIFE.

Mr. O'Sullivan had the assistance of Ruth Stickney, violin, and Olive Russell, soprano. Professor John A. O'Shea was at the organ and the piano. Mme. John O'Sullivan, who before her marriage to the tenor was a concert pianist in Paris, accompanied her husband in several numbers.

O'Sullivan began with the prize song from the Meistersingers. It appears that at the Paris operas he sang all the big Wagnerian roles before the war and he roused a storm of tone and a skill of interpretation which surprised those who expected most from it.

In previous concerts O'Sullivan's programs have lacked the saving grace of humor. Last night he showed that he is a true Irishman, for he delivered several humorous songs with real Celtic drollery.

One of the features of the program was "The Harp that Once Julie Plant," a French Canadian waggist piece of verse and music by Rechter. "Mac C." by James Ecker brought forth a tremendous burst of applause. "The Ballad of Danny Deever," a very dramatic setting of Kipling's verses, was delivered with thrilling effect. The Irish songs, of course, were admirable.

TENOR IN FINE VOICE.

O'Sullivan was in fine vocal trim. His voice is a wonderful instrument with a pealing top to it, which is unequalled anywhere. And despite its dramatic qualities it is of good lyric quality.

Olive Russell, soprano, sang two songs very intelligently and with fine tone. Ruth Stickney, one of the best New England violinists, played very skillfully and selected her numbers with such cleverness that she made an individual hit.

Professor O'Shea was at home at either organ or piano.

ONE AUTO DEALER GETS TWO TRAINLOADS HERE

At least one motor car distributor, namely, the C. F. Clay-Allen Co. of Boston, is playing Santa Claus, having two trainloads of approximately 100 Maxwell cars this week.

"It was no cinch to get these through," remarked Mr. Fay, president of the company. "A traffic department at Detroit has been working on this problem for the past two months and, finally, in the face of many seemingly insurmountable obstacles, succeeded in getting the cars through."

"This is how it was done: To begin with, the cars were loaded on open coal cars, necessitating their being accompanied on the trip by an armed guard to prevent thefts. The unloading is quite a night. Because of the style of the cars, the automobiles have to be lifted bodily out of the cars by a giant electric crane and hung suspended by a cable from the crane's jaws. Some strain of but, then, we just had to have them.

"So we're celebrating, and our customers are getting their cars. Yes, and we are taking care of a few new customers who have been disappointed elsewhere."

Mr. Fay's terse remarks show that there is still a lot of determination and enterprise in the makeup of at least some New England merchants and that the West is not the only place where they do things.

Less Sugar from Cuba

The country's supply of sugar from Cuba will be curtailed, according to estimates by experts. The latest Havana calculation is that the crop will not exceed 3,000,000 tons. Last season's production was 3,791,000 and this year's was figured during the next one would amount to 4,435,000. The forecast shrinkage is 535,000. This means a higher price to the consumer.

Locomotives for New Haven

The New Haven road has been obtaining prices for thirty to forty new locomotives and it is understood in New York that it has virtually closed a contract with the American Locomotive Company.

TETRAZZINI IS WELL RECEIVED

Soprano's Technique Charms Audience at Opera House; Scores in "Mad Scene"

By FRED. J. McISAAC.

The return of a world renowned artist after an absence of half a dozen years is always a matter for anticipation and speculation. Tetrazzini, the great coloratura of Hammerstein's opera days, a singer who ranked with Melba, Sembrich Patti and other great luminaries of the past visited Boston yesterday afternoon and drew an immense throng to the Boston Opera House.

It is fair to say that the audience gave Tetrazzini a big ovation and appeared to be swept off its feet by the Mad Scene from "Hamlet," with which she began her concert.

Tetrazzini has either grown fatter, or I had forgotten how fat she was. When she scampered out upon the stage (she was always kittenish and always garbolled on and off) the exertion caused her to pause for a moment to regain her breath. Then she began to sing.

The Tetrazzini of old was noted for a high voice of remarkable purity and loveliness. Her middlevoice was thin and childlike in tone. She did not have much below. Her technique was simply marvelous. Nobody ever scaled and trilled and tossed staccato more brilliantly than she.

Yesterday she revealed a middle voice which was much broader and stronger, as though she had been singing "Aida" in Italy during the war. Her high notes were somewhat clear and beautiful, sometimes forced and shrill. She appeared to be feeling around for notes she once could hit with ease and assurance. This uneasiness betrayed itself in her singing as her runs now trills were jerky and not always on pitch.

It seems to me that Tetrazzini's voice is still there but that increasing bulk prevents her lungs from sustaining it properly. With a strict diet for a few months she might regain all her old powers.

James Gogarl, a basso, sang acceptably and Pietro Cimara at the piano was entirely competent.

When Tetrazzini had completed her first number and turned to go off her train caught upon a nail in the platform. The little woman almost toppled over, but she got as much fun out of the incident as the audience.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointms made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referenm and the Recall to national matters.

Restore Old Glory to Its Due Place Over Greatest Ships on the Seas

Our War of 1812 was won on the seas before it was won on land by Andrew Jackson's defeat of the flower of Wellington's "British Army of the Peninsula" in the battle of New Orleans.

The earlier victories on the seas were due to our splendid fighting frigates, but still more, perhaps, to our many armed merchant vessels and clipperships manned by intrepid American sailors.

Victory in the late world war could not have been achieved on land by the allies without the two million American soldiers transplanted to France without the loss of a single man.

Those men could not have been sent overseas without the great ships, including the Leviathan, now owned by the United States Government. These ships belonged to the two foremost German steamship companies. They were used in the express service of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg American lines. There are no better ships in the world.

The United States Shipping Board intended to sell them at private sale to be operated ultimately under a foreign flag. This wanton and inexcusable sacrifice of American rights, interests, honor, prestige and safety was stopped by Mr. Hearst's successful suit in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia at Washington.

That court has decided that the board HAD NO LEGAL RIGHT TO SELL THEM. That decision stands.

It is now the duty of Congress to provide for their permanent use.

The Commerce Committee of the Senate has confided to a special sub-committee the duty of drafting a law that will provide for the management and disposition of the two thousand or more steamships built or building under the war emergency shipping laws.

The Senate sub-committee includes Senator Jones, chairman, of Washington; Chamberlain of Oregon, Calder of New York, Colt of Rhode Island, Simmons of North Carolina, Fletcher of Florida and Fernald of Maine. The members were chosen from the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Gulf States.

It is proposed to repeal all the emergency laws and to create a new and permanent shipping board, its members increased from five to seven, their salaries increased from $7,500 to $12,000 a year, with broad powers to operate, lease or sell to all-American companies the steamships built by the Government in American yards.

This shipping board will supervise American ocean-borne commerce, having even broader powers than the Interstate Commerce Commission exercises over the railroads.

But before this far-reaching law, covering all our shipping, can be passed or even drafted, we hope the able Senate committee will provide by a short and simple bill for the permanent retention of that matchless German fleet under the American flag as a part of our army transport reserve.

These ships can be used in times of peace as express steamers in regular passenger service between New York and Boston and Europe, New York and Boston and the principal South American ports, and between our Pacific Coast ports and the Orient, where first-class passenger ships are now sorely needed.

In our brief war with Spain, in 1898, the Government was compelled to transport our soldiers and our supplies to Cuba mostly in slow-going tramp steamers, some of them dirty cattle ships.

We owe only to the fortuitous circumstance that these peerless German ships happened to be in our ports when the world war began that we possessed the ships when they became indispensable to transport our armies to France. As we said in the beginning, WE COULD NOT HAVE WON THE WAR WITHOUT THESE SHIPS.

This sober fact should convince the Senate Commerce Committee of the wisdom of retaining the ships for the permanent Army Transport Reserve, as Secretary Baker has strongly urged. All great maritime nations hold their finest passenger ships in such reserve. These peerless vessels should be immediately reconditioned for passenger service, in our navy yards or elsewhere under the supervision of the Government, and then employed as regular liners where they will win the admiration and stimulate the pride of all American travelers, earn handsome dividends, and at the same time restore Old Glory to its rightful place over the greatest and swiftest ships on the seas.

Starvation Pay for Public Work Bars Efficiency

Our regular army, before we went into the war, had 11,733 commissioned officers. Twenty-one per cent, of these positions are now vacant by resignation. Twenty-three hundred and thirty-seven officers have been starved out.

The army proposed in the pending reorganization bill would need 18,000 commissioned regular officers—two for every one now in the service.

Unless the pay of officers is made high enough to enable them to live in reasonable comfort, where are these new officers to be secured?

A rookie private can be developed into an efficient soldier by a few months of intensive training, but to train an officer properly is the work of years.

Conditions in the navy, coast guard, marine corps and public health service are similar. The old pay schedules are not sufficient to meet the new level of costs.

Indeed, this is also true throughout the Civil Service. Ignoring it will not solve it. These workers must live. They will look elsewhere if the Government forgets them.

No doubt an intelligent revision of administrative plans would produce important economics in the personnel of all these services. That field lies open.

But it will not be possible to maintain efficiency on a starvation basis. Nor would it be economical, if possible.

Those who oppose fair pay for good work in national employments would be the first to criticise if service standards should collapse.

By K. C. B.

IT WAS blossom time.
IN THE Santa Clara Valley.
WHERE ALL the prunes grow.
AND I was invited.
TO BE the guest of honor
AT A neighborhood picnic.
WHICH IS always held.
AT BLOSSOM time,
AND WE drove around.
THROUGH MILES of blossoms.
AND WENT up on a hill.
AND LOOKED down.
AND AWAY across.
TO THE other hills.
AND THE roads were ribbons.
AND ALL of the orchards.
WERE GREAT big rugs.
AND ALL of the houses.
WERE JUST toy houses.
SET DOWN on the rugs.
AND THE automobiles.
ON THE ribbon roads.
WERE LITTLE toy cars.
THAT CHILDREN wind up.
AND THAT run around.
AND AWAY in the distance.
WAS A little toy church.
THAT RAN up in the air.
TO A little toy steeple.
AND WE looked at it all.
FOR A little while.
UNTIL SOMEBODY said.
IT WAS picnic time.
AND WE all drove down.
TO THE foot of a hill.
BESIDE A stream.
WHERE TABLES were laid.
WITH THE picnic food.
AND THEY SAT me down.
BETWEEN THE president.
AND THE president's wife.
AND A paper plate.
JUST IN front of me.
HELD HARD-BOILED eggs.
AND I was hungry.
AND LIKE boiled eggs.
AND RECALLED a story.
ABOUT AN egg.
AND WAS telling it.
WHILE I peeled the egg.
AND A part of the story.
IS TO take the egg.
WHEN THE shell is off.
AND BITE it in two.
AND SO I did.
AND THE egg was bad!
AND THERE I sat.
WITH HALF of the egg.
INSIDE MY mouth.
AND I was the guest.
AND THEY were the hosts!
AND ANYWAY.
I MADE all this up.
AND IT isn't true.
AND I haven't any idea.
WHAT TO do with the egg.
THAT I have in my mouth.
AND YOU can finish the story,
ANY WAY you like.
BECAUSE I have to get ready,
TO GO to the picnic.
THAT I said I was at.

I THANK you.

Letters to the Editor

State House Employes

Editor Boston American:

Considerable publicity has been given to the statements of State Supervisor Thomas W. White, relative to the bonus act for State employes now pending before the General Court.

Having waited in vain for some defence of the State employes and having seen none forthcoming, I am penning you these few lines.

The supervisor lays stress upon the wonderful hours and vacations that State employes enjoy, but sadly enough, not a word about salaries. In another bulletin issued to department heads he suggests that pay be deducted for tardiness, absences, etc. To my knowledge, the methods he suggests have been in operation for the past six years in the automobile department. Not only have we been deducted for absences but have been deducted for sickness caused by conditions under which we work in a poorly-ventilated basement.

Information acquired by personal investigation would do much to disabuse the minds of department heads as to how much work is being accomplished in their departments.

Why not a law that would prevent department heads from dabbling in politics, from stumping during gubernatorial campaigns, from becoming candidates to presidential convention? Such a law would perhaps inconvenience some department heads, but would probably bring them in closer association with their employes.

Loyal Sinn Feiners

Editor Boston American:

As an American woman whose father was born in Ireland and has long since passed away, and married to a "Yankee," I had never heard a great deal of the wrongs perpetrated on the Irish people by the English government until recently.

Naturally I was a little lukewarm towards the Irish bond sale, but since the "Loyal Coalition" gang started their propaganda it opened my eyes and made my blood boil. May God bless William Randolph Hearst, the 100 per cent. American, whose voice and pen have always been raised for the oppressed and downtrodden. His name will go down in history when the names of Demarest Lloyd, Moorfield Storey and their band of Coalitionists, like the traitors and tories of old, have sunk into oblivion. My husband and myself have now bought bonds, thanks to the "Loyal Coalition," and I have converted him, and we are now

TWO LOYAL SINN FEINERS.

BUYING YOUR OWN HOME

Perhaps ten years ago you thought of buying a house, but you felt that you might lose your job or you might move to some other place, and these two bugbears have kept you a renter.

If you had purchased a home when you first thought about it, the chances are you would have had it paid for by this time, and the increase in value of land and buildings would have made a good investment out of it.

You are still hesitating about buying a home.

You argue that any kind of property is high just now.

How long will you let such thoughts keep you a tenant?

If you are strong enough to save money through self-denials, why not buy a place, making payment arrangements which are easily within your means and have a clause in your contract which states that you can pay as much as you desire, stipulating a certain sum, and then go ahead and pay as much more as you can, with a provision that as long as the aggregate equals the amount due according to contract, the owner cannot proceed against you.

Such a plan would give you a little more leeway in case of accident or bad luck and make you feel easier, besides acting as an incentive to pay more.

PURPOSES OF THE LOYAL COALITION SET FORTH

By Moorfield Storey

The Loyal Coalition, which was recently organized in Boston, has attracted attention through its advertisements on the Irish question.

In order that the New England public might know something about the organization, the Editor of the Boston American sent a series of questions to its officers, these questions being designed to bring out an accurate description of its purposes and activities. The subjoined letter from Mr. Moorfield Storey is the answer given by the organization to the Boston American:

Editor Boston American:

Your reporter has left with me certain questions in regard to the Loyal Coalition to which in your behalf he requests a reply.

When it was announced that the representatives of Ulster were coming to Boston, a committee was formed to insure them a proper attention and a respectful hearing. I and others consented to serve on this committee.

Certain active members of the committee decided to form the Loyal Coalition, but owing to a multiplicity of other engagements which make it impossible for me to take any part in the conduct of the work, I declined to become an officer of the league or to join its councils. If I understand its object, it is formed to oppose the efforts of some Irish-Americans who are seeking to establish an Irish republic, and for that purpose are using this country as a base at the risk of embroiling us with England. With that object I sympathize.

Sources of Revenue

You ask "What is the membership" and "What are its sources of revenue?"

Answering from information, I say that its membership is made up of citizens who sympathize with this object, and its revenue, which is not large, comes from their contributions.

You ask "How will money subscribed to the Loyal Coalition be spent?" As I understand, in setting before the public the objections to American interference between England and Ireland.

Since I have answered this question perhaps you will answer similar questions in which the public is quite as much interested, viz.: How much money has been raised for Sinn Fein in this country, how it has been spent, where it has been deposited, and the names of the men who are responsible for it and control its expenditures, and what use it is proposed to make of what is still unspent?

You ask "Why the Loyal Coalition has selected the Irish problem out of all the other problems that face the British empire?"

The answer is that it has not. This problem is selected by certain Irish-Americans who insist that this country shall undertake to settle it instead of settling our own numerous and difficult problems. The Loyal Coalition would leave this problem to be dealt with by the peoples concerned, but it objects to having a campaign against a friendly country conducted here.

You ask what is the league's "constructive program for Ireland, India, Egypt and other subject nations of Great Britain?"

The answer is that it has none, since these are not American problems and we prefer to mind our own business, as we expect the British empire to mind its own business and not interfere with our treatment of our subject nations, the Philippines, Haiti, Santo Domingo and others.

You ask "What British statesmen are there in conference or correspondence with it in regard to the activities of the Loyal Coalition" and "What Irish statesmen have they consulted in regard to the Irish problem?"

Consulted None

I cannot doubt that the answer to both questions is "None." Neither has the Coalition consulted Italian statesmen as to Tripoli or French statesmen about Morocco, and for the same reason, viz.: that the United States should attend to its own affairs.

You ask "To whom the Coalition is loyal and what it wishes to destroy?"

The answer is it is loyal to the United States of America, and wishes to preserve it from idle and dangerous agitation. It wishes to destroy nothing.

You ask what its relation is to an association of British loyalists in Canada. The answer is "None," so far as I can learn.

You ask "Why should anyone join the Loyal Coalition or subscribe to its fund?"

The answer is because it is of the first importance to the civilization of the world that any attempt to create ill-feeling between the United States and the British empire, or to interfere with Britain in its handling of a domestic problem at the risk of embroiling the two countries in war, should be resisted and defeated.

Money and Harmony
The Waist Returns
Teaching a King
Hat Versus Ruler

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

The United States decides that while it does not like Russian government, it would like Russian trade. Therefore arrangements will be made for trading without recognizing Lenin or his rule.

This is a beginning, for trade has a way of smoothing things over. When this country begins making money on a big scale through Russian trade, the view of Russia's right to have her own government may change also.

Where there is money there is harmony, and there is discord where money is lacking.

Our recent trouble with Russia was due to the fact that bankers who bought Russian bonds and expected to make a fat profit, found they were going to lose all.

French fashions, which wind up and direct the women of the world, have decided that woman shall again display a waist line. Of late women have enjoyed blessed relief on the inside. Corset pressure on lungs, liver and ribs ceased to be fashionable and the poor creatures could at least breathe. But pressure is to be put on once more.

All fashions of late have a tendency to "display" something. Women do not know how much of their power is due to their wisdom in covering themselves, a wisdom gradually acquired through ages, and now forgotten.

A group of ladies in the Cahoon region, with nothing on at all, are not in the least interesting. Imagination is more convincing than reality.

The Danish King is learning something, a difficult thing for Kings. He had lately been telling the people that he was the source of wisdom. When a great crowd went to the palace asking him to change his mind, they were forbidden to enter the royal square. "But a sudden display of red flags frightened the horses of the police and thousands surged into the square."

The King might take a hint from those police horses. Louis Sixteenth, too late to do him any good, appeared on his balcony with the revolutionary cockade in his hat. Denmark's King, and some other Kings, may yet appear gently waving certain little flags. These are times of quick changes.

Mr. Hoover announces that he is only a Republican. No Democratic independent indorsement need apply. This makes him regular and straightens out one little knot in our grand system of choosing a ruler for four years.

"Ruler" is the word, for with the British Solons on probation and the Russian Czar underground, there exists no earthly potentate with the President's power. Under the circumstances it is surprising how little real interest the people take in the choice of a man to boss them.

Of one hundred million Americans, male and female, a big majority, are more deeply interested in this Spring's bat than in next Fall's Presidential.

"Lucky the nation that needs not worry about its ruler," you may say. Quite so, as long as nothing complicated happens. But you know what happened in Germany. They were all busy, leaving their ruler to be busy in his way. They are paying the bill now. So is the rest of the world.

An effort, charmingly asinine, is made to keep Socialists from admission to law classes in the College of the City of New York.

What is the patriotic idea? If you consider a Socialist a lawless person, why not let him study and know the law. Would you say that a heathen must not be allowed to study you religion? Or do you perhaps lack in confidence in your own laws, and fear that perverted intelligence might twist them against you? Would you forbid anybody to study the Constitution?

On a par with forbidding one class to study law is the suggestion that there shall be no newspaper or other periodicals printed in foreign languages.

That reminds you of the lady who said her daughter might go out to swim, undress and hang her clothes on a hickory limb, but not go near the water.

How do you expect a man who speaks no English to learn when he first arrives here. You consent to use signs in teaching a man deaf and dumb. Why not use in print the signs that a man understands, teaching him your own signs as quickly as possible.

Why talk of "Americanizing" foreigners, and beginning with an exhibition of foolish provincial prejudice?

Did not Christ confer upon His followers the mysterious "power of tongues," enabling each one to speak ten or a hundred languages, in order to spread His truth everywhere?
